Kendig Named National DHIA Vice President

INDIANAPOLIS, IN — J. Robert Kendig, Conestoga, the immediate past president of Pennsylvania DHIA, was elected vice president of the National Association here this week. Kendig, who is chairman of the National New Generation Committee that works on proposals to help DHIA adapt to change, was named at the National Directors Reorganizational Meeting. Fred Griffith, Washington State, was named president.

Special Correspondent Karl Burger plans a full report on the National Convention next week.

PA STATE DIRECTORS ELECTED

The PA DHIA State Board elections were held recently in conjunction with the annual district director conferences. There are five director districts, and each district is represented on the State Board based on the number of members in the district. This year there were six terms expiring, one from each of the districts except the southeast. In the southeast district 2 directors were elected, one for a term which had expired, and one for a director who had retired from the Board. The results of the elections follow.

J. Robert Kendig

In the Northwest district, Frank Orner from Clearfield County was re-elected. In the Southwest district Clyde Robison, Washington County was re-elected. In the Central district, Brook Smith, Perry County was elected and replaces Martin Grey from York County. In the Northeast district Joe Lyons, Columbia County was re-elected. And in the Southeast district Richard Hoppes, Berks County was re-elected and Norman Hershey, Lancaster County was elected to replace Ellis Denlinger, Lancaster County who retired from the board this year.

STATE COLLEGE — Pennsylvania's Jersey youth were in the spotlight at the kick-off banquet of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club's Annual Meeting held last weekend at the Toftrees Resort in State College. The banquet, held Friday evening in the Le Papillion Dining Room was preceded by a milk punch and cheese reception served by Junior members. Highlights of the evening included the crowning of the 1988 PA State

ALTOONA — Highlights of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association's annual meeting here last weekend included a report of increased assets, an optimistic report due to component pricing, a good young sire program, and the naming of the Guernsey Queen. In addition, the Outstanding Boy and Girl were named, and successful calf and bred heifer sales were held.

The assets increased because of the sale of the Guernsey Barn

Klines Honored As Outstanding Cooperator

BY PAT PURCELL

LANCASTER — Paul and Mae Kline brought honor to the long list of Klines who have worked the land on their farm outside fo Lititz since the 1700's. Paul Kline received the Outstanding Cooperator Award from the Lancaster County Conservation District for 1988 at their annual banquet Thursday evening.

"Having a conservation plan is more convenient than not having one. It's just as easy to follow terraces and contours as strips. In most cases I find it a lot more convenient to follow the contours and not have to worry about the gulleys. You've got to keep the soil from washing away. This is what has to be done," said Kline.

The Klines with their son Ronald farm five different farms totaling 312 acres. They raise 100

Paul and Mae Kline of Brunnerville Road, Lititz, were honored with the 1988 Outstanding Cooperator Award from the Lancaster County Conservation District. Paul and his son, Ronald farm five farms and have implemented strict conservation measures on the home farm of 41 acres and on all the rented farms of nearly 250 acres. Paul is surrounded by his toy tractor collection. And for all the toy tractor hobbyists, Paul's collection contains both red and green tractors.

Farmers Urged To Help Find Alternate Energy Sources

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — It has been almost 15 years since OPEC fostered an energy crisis in the US. The long lines that we all sat in waiting for gas are distant memories now, particularly as OPEC has had internal strife and the price of oil has lowered dramatically.

"In the U.S., we have a false sense of security, we think we've licked the oil problem. We have been enjoying a brief respite from the inevitable climb in oil prices," Robert Bergland, former Secretary U.S. Department of Agriculture, told attendees of an energy-management workshop. The workshop was sponsored by Penn State and the following state organizations, the Energy Office, Department of Agriculture, Farmers Association, Farmers Union, and Grange.

"We need to be prepared for the day when oil prices will receive another shock," he declared.

Bergland, also the executive director of the National Rural Electric Cooperatives, strongly believes that the United States should find alternate energy methods so as not to be dependent on finite resources such as oil.

Farmers in particular should be concerned according to Bergland because the industry is very energy dependent. Animal-food producers use energy constantly in uses that range from running the tractor for field work to running the motor to grind feed or provide ventilation.

"We in Rural Electric Co-op are encouraging you (farmers) and people like you in finding ways to depend less on oil for energy and to economize," Bergland remarked. Alternate energy sources could include photovoltaics or extracting oil from shale. Economization

Acres Corn Update: Corn futures closed from 1/4 to 1-1/4 cents lower with commercial selling featured late in the session Bear spreading was also featured today with ideas that supplies were sufficient to meet current demands Commercials spread July/May and December/July Light farmer selling and firm basis levels kept losses minimal The March option lost 1/2 cent and settled at $1 97-1/2 with a high at $1 98-1/2 and a low of $1 97-1/4 After the close, the USDA announced a sale of 200,000 metric tonnes to the Soviet Union

Acres Soybean Update: Soybeans futures closed lower but off session lows as scattered buying late in the session lifted prices Selling was attributed to hedging of the Brazilian crop and a technical correction in the deferreds Support in the spot month came from a firmer basis level and ideas that exports would remain strong in despite news that USDA official Thomas Key sees talks on the USSR/US long term grain agreement as long and drawn cut March closed the day at $6 11-1/2, down 2-1/4 while November closed at $6 41-1/4, down 4 cents

Acres Wheat Update: Wheat futures closed from 2-1/2 to 2-3/4 cents lower near session lows with selling featured on dimming export hopes Subsequent to the close, the USDA announced sales in their latest auction of 502,629 bushels. Support came today on a small short-covering rally and slack farmer sales on higher cash basis values The March option closed at $2 92-1/2, down 2-1/2

Acres Cattle Update: Live cattle futures settled slightly higher on a late rally with buying in response to concerns over the latest winter storm system as well as strong cash markets With winter storm watches in effect for Kansas, Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle ideas of short supplies boosted prices Price gains were limited by long liquidation and sluggish boxed beef movement

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash steady futures-steady

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures settled from unchanged to 43 lower with April leading the declines Pressure in the front month was attributed to the unwindingof June/April spreads as the longs rolled forward Further pressure came from ideas that cash hogs would open lower tomorrow and current heavy receipts The latest winter storm system headed for the midwest was blamed for the increased runs
ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash - steady to lower futures - steady to lower

MARKET COMMENT: PRICES WERE UNCHANGED TO LOWER ON MEDIUMS, UNCHANGED ON THE LARGER SIZES. TRADE SENTIMENT WAS ABOUT STEADY BUT CAUTIOUS. DISTRIBUTIVE MOVEMENT WAS IRREGULAR WITH SOME DELAERS REPORTING IMPROVEMENT AND OTHERS STILL DISAPPOINTED. FLOOR STOCKS WERE USUALLY IN GOOD BALANCE TO SATISFY CURRENT BUYER NEEDS.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wed., March 16, 1988

Trading activity was good on barely adequate supplies of cutlets and sellers generally found little resistance at 1.85-1.90. Rib breasts were no more than adequate and cleared well at today's levels Line run breasts were tight; trading spotty. Legs and leg quarters were fully adequate to occasionally ample for a no better than fair call with some spot product noted sold below current levels. Wings were irregular and while many sellers were able to get higher prices the buying interest was becoming less aggressive.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer

Wed., March 16, 1988

Demand for ready-to-cook whole birds was fairly good in spots but overall was only fair at best. Supplies were fully adequate to occasionally ample. In the parts complex legs and leg quarters were generally adequate, with the reamining items barely adequate to adequate for a good call. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 48 to 56 cents, however, discounting in an effort to move additional product, continued. Live supplies were generally moderate. Weights were mostly desirable. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. The undertone was barely steady

OPINION

Honoring America's Providers

Sunday is National Ag Day. Every year since 1973 communities and organizations throughout the nation have celebrated a special day to honor American farmers, and to tell the farmer's story to urban America.

This year, Bart Forbes, nationally-known artist and designated artist of the 1988 Olympics, was commissioned to do an original oil painting to start a National Ag Day collection. A large scale reproduction of the painting is the focus of a display on Capitol Hill this week. The display is designed to attract attention of all legislators, especially those representing urban America.

In addition, a TV special will air during next week on about 135 stations across the nation. This feature called "American Farmers" is the seventh in a series presented by Elanco Products Co. and sponsored by FMC and Ford Truck Division.

The program features human interest vignettes that tell the vigorous story of American agriculture, the nation's biggest industry and biggest employer. Stories include an interview with Iowa farmer Gary Larsen who, faced with changing or going out of business, decided to produce a lighter, less fat, lower cholesterol beef. Consumers now respond to his operation and it is thriving.

"American Farmers" also compares our U.S. agriculture to farming in the Soviet Union. It concludes with the story of a Russian-born farmer, Robert Wilhelm, who came to this country with nothing, built a successful farming operation, and flies the flag each day to say thank you.

Certainly farmers deserve this recognition. The American consumer receives good value for food dollars as a result of the hard work, ingenuity and dedication of American farmers.

We want to join hands with farmers and everyone involved to remind consumers about this excellent value that they receive. The Agricultural Day theme is, "National Agriculture Day -- Honoring America's Providers." We hope the urban honor of farmers lasts longer than a day. 365 days would be better. 366 this year.

To Apply Poultry Manure Sparingly

With the large poultry population in this region, poultry manure is in good supply. Since poultry manure may contain from 15 pounds to nearly 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton, depending on moisture and litter content, over application can burn crops and result in disappointments. Gardeners should not be using heavy amounts of fresh manure in their soils. On cropland it is recommended that poultry manure applications be limited to not more than 5 to 7 tons of 75% moisture content per acre.

Keep in mind that some poultry manure man contain up to 50 pounds of nitrogen per ton and can burn seed and crop roots. Poultry manure is also the highest in phosphorus and potash of any of our farm manures. It has excellent fertilizer value when used properly.

The 1987-88 Agronomy Guide (page 22) gives additional details about the fertilizer values of farm manures. The Agronomy Guide is available through any Extension Office for a $5.00 fee.

To Be Patient With Livestock

This is the time of year that we are under strain and pressure to get a lot of jobs underway for the planting season. It also means that we are not as patient with people and livestock. Let's be careful, as we move our cattle around, and not give them that extra slap or prod to try to speed up movement. Keep in mind, that extra shove or push could have an effect on production. Cows can "sense" the change in pace and temperament and respond with a little less production.

There is a great deal of activity in the spring season, but let's not take it out on our cattle. Be patient and try to maintain a relaxed schedule as we move our livestock around. It'll pay off in the milk check.

We find that in the best producing herds the animals are relaxed and the workers are relaxed. This tells us something about the tender loving care that cattle need.

To Remove Trash

Landowners along rural roads are the victims of people who have little respect for property of others. Too many people are dumping trash in fields along the road. In all cases when this is dumped on pastsures or cropland, the trash should be removed before spring growth begins. This trash will be hard on farm equipment when on cropland and may be poisonous to livestock when on pastureland.

We urge property owners to remove the trash in the next few weeks. If any type of identification can be made, as to the owner of the trash, this should be reported to Township officials; prosecution can be made for dumping trash along the highway.

To Prepare A Will

The statement "we don't own enough to justify a will" is overused by many families. If you have a family and you own anything you should have a will. If a person dies without a will, the property is distributed according to the Intrastate Laws of Pennsylvania. These laws may not distribute your estate according to your desires. This has often happened in the past and there is little that can be done about it without a will.

We urge all family heads, and property owners, to contact a lawyer and have him help with making a will. The cost will be considerably less than settling an estate without a will. There is some very good information dealing with "wills" in the Estate Planning bulletin available at any Extension Office.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT JESUS WANTED

March 20, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 26:36-56.
Devotional Reading: 1 Thessalonians 5:1-8.

The picture we get of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane shows us the humanity of Jesus more clearly than perhaps any other passage in the New Testament. The writers of the four gospels rarely show us much of Jesus' emotions, but we do see them clearly on this fateful night. Matthew tells us Jesus was "sorrowful and troubled" (26:37). Mark had used an even stronger term: "distressed" or "terrified." The point is that Jesus was experiencing some very strong human emotions.

This is important because the scenes of Jesus' last night and day are often presented to us as of a man simply going through the motions of a course that has already been predetermined. The Jesus we see in these gospel accounts, however, is much more than an actor following a script. His emotions in Gethsemane are powerful and real. He is not seeking to be a martyr. He is not fed up with the world and ready to move on. In fact, Matthew tells us that he says to his disciples: "My heart is ready to break with grief" (New English Bible).

HUMAN NEEDS

We also see Jesus' humanity breaking through as we note what it is he wanted in Gethsemane. For one thing, he wanted human companionship. He took his disciples to the garden and three of them he kept close to him as he prayed. One might protest that Jesus didn't need human support if he had God. But Jesus makes it very clear that he needed both — just as we do. And he was just as disappointed when he failed to get all the human support he needed: "So, could you not watch with me one hour?" he asked when he found them sleeping.

This doesn't mean that we cannot make it without human support. Sometimes we are all alone, except, of course, for God. Sometimes people cannot get to us to be with us in our need. Sometimes other people fail us. But, nevertheless, it is human to feel the need for others in our times of crisis. Jesus was God's Son, the world's Messiah. If any person was ever self-sufficient, it was Jesus. Still, he felt that need and it is perfectly natural for us to feel it, too.

Jesus also revealed his human feelings in praying: "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me" (26:39). His first desire was to escape the tribulation that seemed to lie before him. Arrest, torture, humiliation, separation from those whom he loved, death, particularly death on a cross — none of this did Jesus seek for himself. If there was any way to avoid the consequences of Judas' betrayal, he was asking God to spare him. Similarly, we do not seek to be martyrs, not even a nonviolent martyrdom. None of us should ever be ashamed of wanting to avoid suffering of any kind, not if we value and revere the life that God has given us.

HIS GREATEST WANT

So, Jesus wanted human support and he wanted to avoid suffering and death. That was his humanity showing. But Jesus also wanted something else: he wanted to be faithful to God's will: "nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt." He wanted to avoid martyrdom, but even more than that he wanted to be faithful. And that was his humanity showing, too — a higher humanity than that which drives us to preserve our lives at all costs.

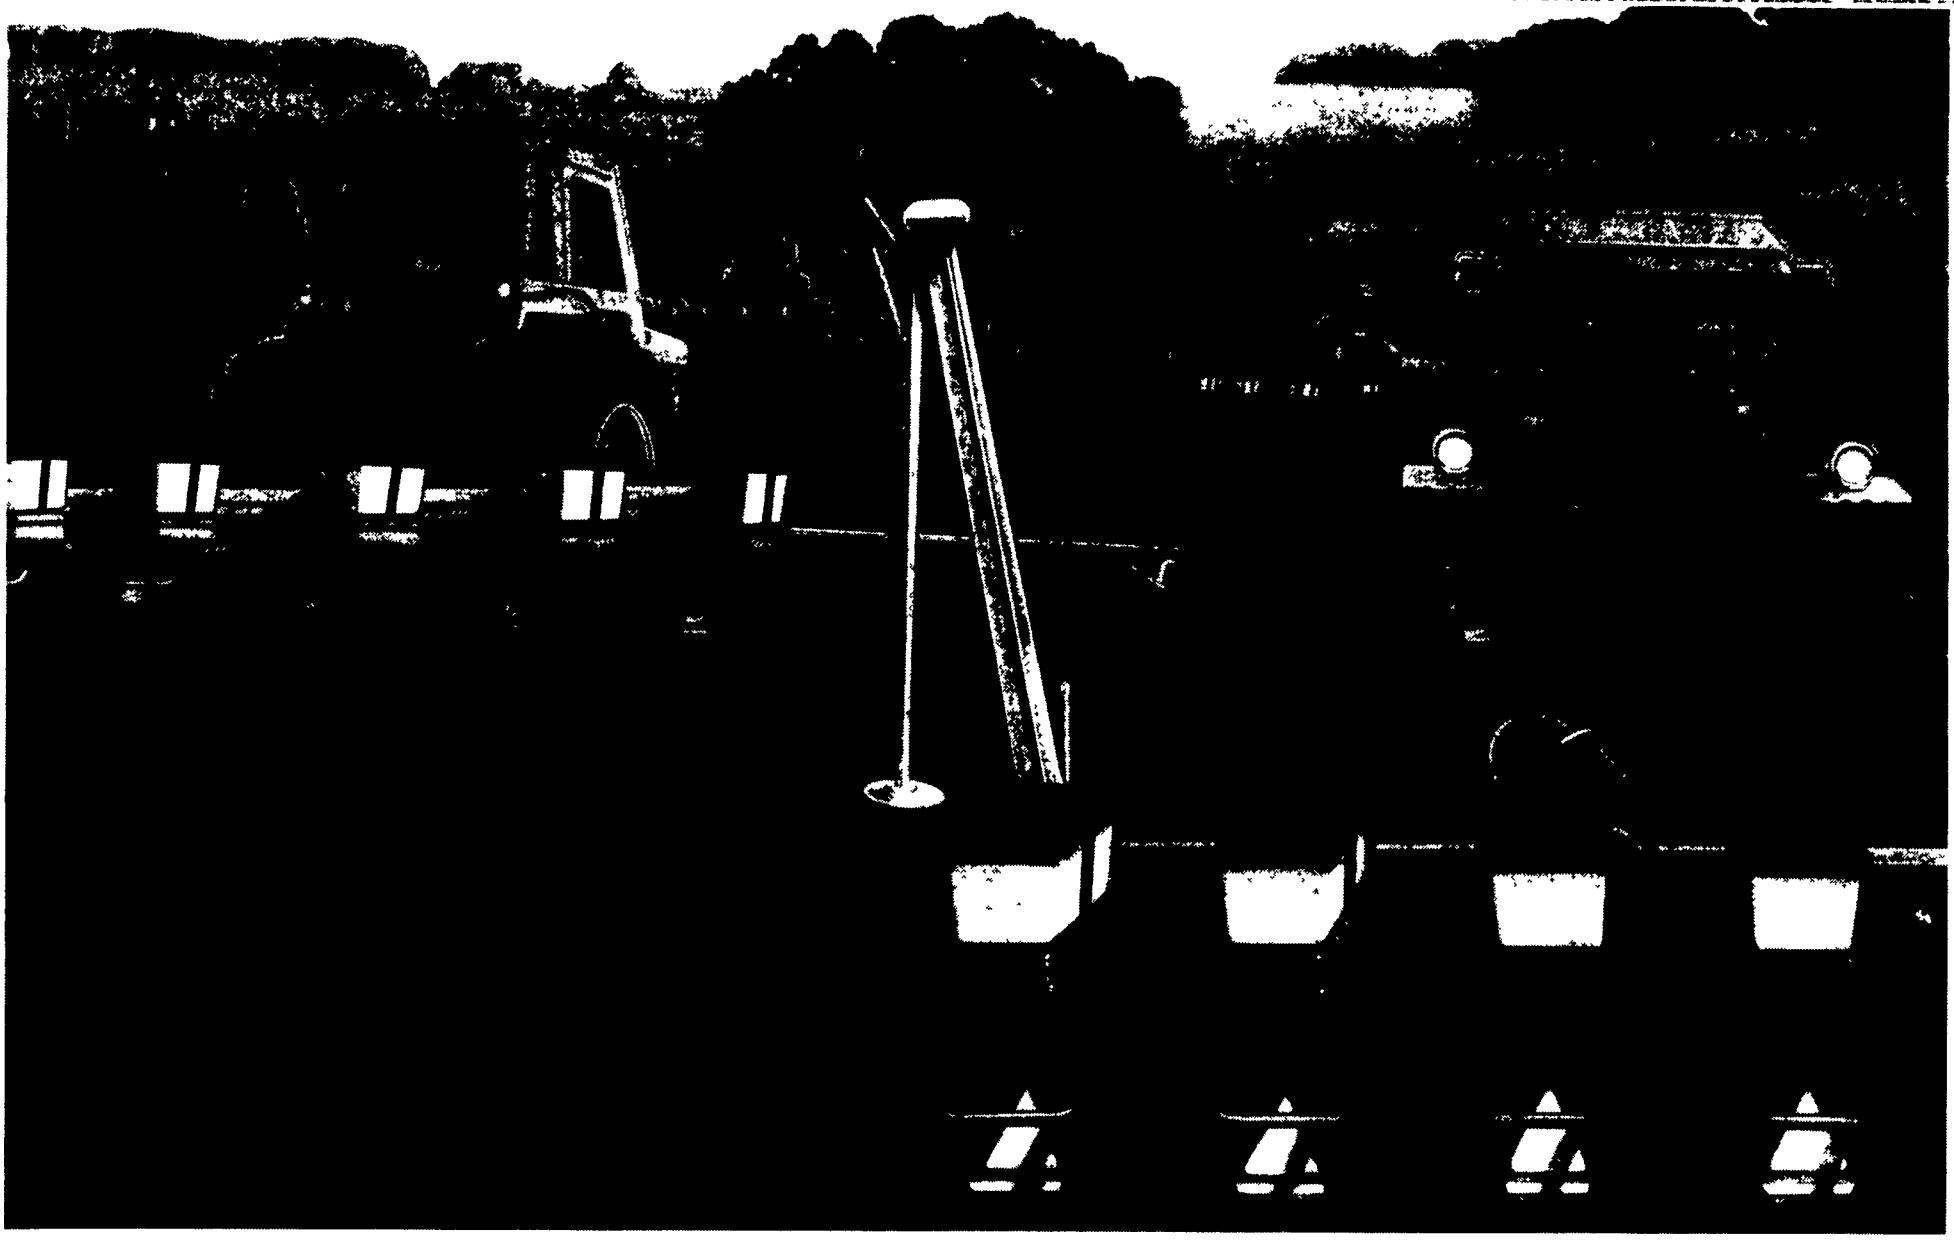
WHAT'S THIS, UNCLE OTIS?
THAT'S AN OLD KEROSENE LANTERN...
..THEY WERE OUR LAMPS BACK IN THE OLD DAYS
WHERE DO YOU PLUG IT IN?
DAVE CARPENTER



We Put More Men In The Field Than The United States Army.

Currently, Uncle Sam keeps around 300,000 army soldiers on active duty.

Farm Credit, on the other hand, helps keep over 2 million farmers on active duty. With more loans for more farming needs than any other lending institution.

For many of you, we've been there from the beginning. With money for land, as well as your house and barn.

We help stock the farm, too. With loans for everything from cows to catfish. Seeds to saplings. Fertilizer to fencing.

And when it's time for a new tractor or pick-up, just call us to get the wheels turning.

Farming has been our only field of interest for seventy years. That's because we're farmers too. Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the same farmers who use its services.

What's more, come rain or shine, we'll stick by you in any kind of weather. And when you think about it, that's reason enough to join our ranks.

Farm Philosophy

By Newton Bair

THE 16 BILLION YEAR-OLD UNIVERSE

The Earth we inhabit is only a tiny speck of dust in the Cosmos. If someone in the center of our Galaxy would try to find the Earth with the most powerful telescope that exists, our Earth could not be seen.

Since life began, Man has looked outward to the heavens and wondered. The Stars seemed to be fixed in space, never moving in relation to each other, but moving as a single body from East to West across the night sky. He wondered about a few of those "stars" that seemed to move about among the others at an almost predictable rate and direction. Planets differed in size, brightness and color. At first they seemed to revolve about the Earth, with Earth as the center of everything. It is a part of our ego that makes us the center, with all else revolving about us! We now know how silly that is. Or is it?

Well, we are learning that the Universe is much more complex than we thought. Cosmic space can no longer be measured by the simple math used by Sir Isaac Newton and Gallileo. Our units of time and distance must be expanded to accommodate its greatness. Distance is measured in Light Years. The Universal Constant in nature is the speed of light, which is 186,000 miles per second. If the nearest star to the sun should explode or disappear today, we wouldn't see it happen until four years later! The Super Nova or exploding star that was recently observed by astronomers, actually blew up over two thousand years ago, but the light just got to us now.

The Milky Way Galaxy, of which our Solar system is a small part, is hundreds of thousands of light years in diameter. On a dark night, with no city lights to interfere, we can see the bright glow from the billions of stars and suns that inhabit the far reaches of the Milky Way. Some of those stars are bigger than our entire solar system, but they are so distant that we see only their collective glow, rather than single points of light. There are many thousands of Galaxies similar to ours. Some are so vast in size that they can be seen with binoculars, even though they are unbelievably distant. Space travel, as imagined by Science-fiction writers, is unthinkable, by all the laws of nature we presently understand. It would take the span of many generations, not single lifetimes, to travel to other parts of our galaxy. And many more millennia to try to reach another galaxy. Assuming, of course, that we could travel at a speed approaching that of light, which we have little hope of doing.

Now, another amazing truth is that all of these heavenly bodies are in motion. The sky never seems to change, yet every star and every galaxy is moving at incredible speed. Yes, we can see the moon encircle the Earth every month, and the Earth complete its orbit around the sun every year. But what we find hard to believe is that our star, the Sun, also travels about the Milky Way. The distance is so great that it takes about 200 million years to make one complete circle!

Scientists who study the Cosmos, and who made these marvelous observations, have concluded that there are indeed other dimensions to the Universe beside length, width and height. One dimension is time. There may even be other dimensions as yet undiscovered. One intriguing theory is that ever since the Big Bang, the Creation indeed, the whole Universe is expanding at a tremendous rate. It appears that the galaxies farthest removed from ours are traveling the fastest. It further appears that there may be a curve in their trajectory, like the surface of a sphere.

Try to recapture the wonder and glory of the Shepherds, who named the stars and planets and constellations. Look at the sky, and savor the beauty and wonder of Creation!

Petitions To Be Presented To Octorara School Board

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

Petitions protesting Octorara Area School District's taking of the Naaman King farm are scheduled to be presented to the school board Monday, March 21 by Chester-Delaware County Farmers Association. "We're hoping to have 100 to 200 concerned people turn out for the meeting," said Richard Breckbill, vice president and policy coordinator of the association.

King was served notice last December that the school board had condemned his 102-acre West Fallowfield Township farm to add to its Highland Road campus. Lancaster attorney James Thomas filed preliminary objections to the Taking for King last January 8. Following depositions of Octorara Superintendent Richard McAdams in February, a brief was filed by Thomas, requesting oral arguments before Chester County Common Pleas Judge Charles Smith.

Alan Jarvis, solicitor for the school board, said, "I have no problem with that (oral arguments)." Jarvis' formal reply to Thomas' brief is due the day of the school board meeting, March 21.

"The condemnation process is a legal process and we need to fight that battle in the courts," Thomas stated. "The decision whether to condemn and how much to condemn is a political process, and to the extent that the school board members are sympathetic to what a group of interested people have to say about it, a petition drive could have a great deal of impact."

"On the other hand," Thomas continued, "they might just completely turn a deaf ear on it and say 'We've decided; we're not going to be swayed by it.' The petition doesn't have any impact on the legality. . . It's a struggle on a different level."

The petition asks the school board to 1) purchase a parcel of

The Farmers Side Of The Story

We the undersigned producers are diverting our milk or have left Farmland permanently, not because we want to put Farmland out of business, but because Farmland refuses to co-operate with R.C.M.A. or to even sit down with Farmland producers as a group to discuss the issues.

Farmland must think our memories are pretty short when they say Farmland has never turned away milk. We here in Northeastern Pa. all have friends and neighbors who were dropped by Farmland. They were dropped because they weren't making enough milk or were not easily accessible to tractor trailers.

We ask you to consider the following. According to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, in 1980, dairymen were getting 52% of the consumers dollars spent for dairy products. In 1986, they were only getting 44%. With milk at $2.00 a gallon this is a loss of .16 per gallon or $1.85 per hundred.

WHO'S POCKETS DID THIS END UP IN!

Why did it take Farmland until August, 1987 to share some of this in the form of a .15 premium? Was it because R.C.M.A. announced an over-order price for September?

We ask all dairymen to join with us and make over-order pricing a continuous program as it is in the Midwest. Lets keep R.C.M.A. working for us so all handlers are charged the same and all producers are paid the same.

If we stand together R.C.M.A. will work and it will improve the income of all dairymen in the Northeast. If we allow ourselves to be bought off or scared off, then we will have lost our last chance to help ourselves and many of us may find we can no longer afford to dairy.

Paid for by Independent producers of N.E. Pa. Helping to build a healthier American. If you would like to talk to us about R.C.M.A. call any of the following.

Work To Earn Premiums

CARLISLE — More and more dairymen are striving to qualify for premium payments on the milk they produce. It is encouraging to see dairymen be rewarded for producing good quality milk. Premiums are being paid for milk that is higher in fat and protein content, lower in bacteria and somatic cell count levels and of good flavor.

These comments focus on some of the things dairymen can do in an effort to qualify for lower bacterial content premiums.

A bacteria count has been used the past few years to check raw milk quality. It is abbreviated P.I., which means Preliminary Incubation. This test provides a better indication of milk production methods and the potential shelf life of raw milk. Some plants in Pennsylvania are running P.I. counts in place of the Standard Plate Count, or SPC, and have adopted the same standards for both.

For the P.I. count, the raw milk sample is incubated at 55 degrees F. for 18 hours. This is similar to holding raw milk for 48 hours prior to pasteurization. Bacterial results below 50,000 per ml are acceptable, but the goal should be 20,000 or less per ml. Many results will be less than 10,000 just like the SPC, if sanitation is good.

Causes of high P.I. counts include dirty cows, poor udder washing practices, slow cooling or temperatures above 40 degrees F., failure to thoroughly clean equipment twice each day and neglecting to sanitize equipment before use. Follow these tips for good P.I. counts and high quality raw milk.

1. Clip hair from udder and flanks of cow and keep them reasonably clean.

2. Use a sanitizer solution for washing cows udders. The iodine-compounds provide a color indicator at the proper strength of 25 ppm. Use paper towels or cow cloths (not a sponge) to wash and-thoroughly dry the lower udder and teats.

3. Wash all milk handling equipment after each use. Disassemble and clean valve, covers, bridge and agitator of your bulk tank each time after milk is picked up. Clean your milker units, transfer system or pipeline twice each day using dairy detergents and a recommended procedure.

4. Sanitize all milk contact surfaces with a chlorine or iodine sanitizer solution. Proper strengths are 200 ppm chlorine or 25 ppm iodine. Do this just before using the equipment and not after cleaning.

5. Cool your milk to 40 degrees F. or below within one hour after finishing milking. Blend temperatures should not exceed 45 degrees F. during the second and subsequent milkings.

6. Check the bacterial count of your water supply to be sure that it contains no coliforms or spoilage bacteria which would be reflected in a high P.I. Count.

Good P.I. counts indicate high quality raw milk. They are one step toward assuring consumers of milk with good flavor and shelf life.

Eastern President Cites Strategy Of Bottom Line

SYRACUSE — A strategy that focused on the dairy farmer's bottom line resulted in $2 million in extra income for members of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, Eastern President R. LaVerne McCarty told 200 delegates and local officers at Eastern's semi-annual Delegate Meeting held in Syracuse, N.Y., on March 15.

"The co-op continued to strike a balance between concern for its own bottom line and concern for the bottom lines of us individual producers," said McCarty, who operates a farm with his sons in Forksville, Pa.

Noting that the past year has been a challenge for the whole dairy industry in the Northeast, with tight milk supplies and with more and more dairymen going out of business, Eastern's president said that "proprietary handlers" attacked the marketplace "like hungry lions."

"These private companies had only one thing in mind: their own bottom lines," McCarty continued. "If Eastern had been a private company, it could have done the same thing and made a lot of money. But as a cooperative, Eastern had to respond to market conditions with its members in mind, not just its own bottom line. So, dues revenues were cut. Administrative expenses were slashed. And profits dropped as we spent money to meet contracts and to seize opportunities in the marketplace that would in the long term benefit members."

He added: "The strategy worked . . . We never had a better year for funneling over-order premiums and bonuses to farmers. About $2-million in over-order premiums were paid out to members. Our Fall Premium Program alone provided bonus checks to 1,400 members. I am happy to say that this successful Fall Premium Program will be offered again this year."

McCarty also cited a few other accomplishments. "For example," he said, "in the past six years we have paid off $10 million of the mortgage on the cheese plants we lease to Leprino Foods. Our Dairy Products Division (which is headquartered in Canton, Pa.) went from a pick-up truck with two products just a few years ago to a remarkable enterprise boasting six stores, 200 products and over $8 million in sales."

McCarty also told the delegates that while the co-op had done a remarkable job, "we are not satisfied" and are "determined to make Eastern better." He said Eastern is a co-op that cares, "first and foremost, for the farm family and the family farm."

He explained: "We are a co-op that aims to build a business that will secure a better economic future for farm families. I predict that someday in the not too distant future, your president will stand up here telling you that because of the success of our truck routes and dairy stores, we can guarantee every member a '13th' check (or cash bonus). I look forward to the day when your president will be up here announcing cuts in dues and equity. I look forward to a bright future for the member-owners of Eastern Milk Producers."

Panel Discusses Government In Agriculture

LANCASTER — Approximately 180 farmers met recently to hear panel discussion on government involvement in agriculture at Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service's ninth annual banquet.

Panelists covered a wide range of topics including the state's pesticide policies and licensing, the Chesapeake Bay Program, and farmland preservation.

In response to concern that an agricultural land-preservation program would lead to nationalization of farmland under government control, Lancaster County Commissioner James Huber responded that ownership remains private under such program and that the government isn't interested in owning farmland.

Also participating on the panel were Noah Wenger, state senator, 36th District; Arthur Hershey, state representative, 13th District; Walter Peechatka, director of the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Plant Industry; and George Wolff, public affairs consultant and agricultural lobbyist.

Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service serves 350 growers in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Alternate Energy

involves keeping farm machinery in top condition, using high-efficiency motors, and making fewer passes in the field.

"Anything that has a high dependency on oil energy will be priced out of the marketplace when oil prices explode," declared Bergland.

Developing alternate energy sources will be hard because "our society is used to taking the easiest course of action and is short on long-range planning," Bergland contended. "We need to help develop public awareness of the importance of energy conservation."

Increased awareness will help influence universities to spend more time researching the energy problem and will help provide the dollars to fund such research. "Sooner or later the economies of these alternate energy sources will come to light," stated Bergland. "But will we be ready?"

Cutting energy costs

Economizing energy through proper ventilation was one of the program's workshops. "The easiest way to reduce energy costs is to improve production," declared Dr. Robert Graves, Penn State agricultural engineer. "Air quality is an important part of increasing production."

For larger farms, there is not much difference in monetary input between high production and average production, but there is a big difference at market time, according to Graves.

Good air quality translates into better animal health and general welfare. Fresh air helps to eliminate excess heat, high moisture, noxious gases, and dust particals, which occur primarily in swine and poultry operations. Eliminating these stresses means less illness and consequently better production.

Providing good ventilation requires energy-efficient motors and regular maintenance of the ventilation system. Maintenance includes cleaning the motor and fan blades, making repairs with proper parts, and keeping belts tight fitting.

Graves advised attendees that when considering motors of the same size, the one that operates on a lower amp will be the most energy efficient. "Highly energy-efficient motors cost more money, but you have to weigh that against how it will be used. The more something runs, the better the chance for savings."

Daniel J. Meyer, extension agricultural engineer, made the following points:

•There is a higher mortality in animals living in an environment with poor air quality and if they live in such a stressful environment, it will take longer to get the animal to market.

•An overly strong amonia odor is stressful to animals; the deader the air movement, the stronger the odor.

•An excessive amount of carbon dioxide in the air, which is caused by a lack of fresh air, makes animals lazy, slow and disinclined to eat.

•Dirty fans can reduce air flow by 20 to 30 percent.

•The worse air is located where it is sucked out, and the longer the building the worse the air gets at that location.

Having trouble finding a Doebler dealer? Call me, Willard Jones, at 717-753-3210

"We discard our old hybrids . . . not blend 'em"

Silage blends are tempting. So are farm economy packs. But who are we kidding. These are discontinued hybrids . . . ones that no longer meet the competition. Or pay the bills.

That's why Doebler discards the has beens. And only sells the top of the line. Like Doebler 75X, Pennsylvania's all time champ with 281.6 bushels.

New Extra Performance single crosses lived up to advance notices in 1987 tests. And then some. Doebler 66XP popped 212.7 bu. at Saegerstown, PA, with solid 165.2 bu. average in 30 trials. Same great news for 57XP and 28XP. But bad news, too. Two XPs sold out. Supply of 28XP limited.

Ask your Doebler dealer about these hot ones. All top of the line for 1988:

DOEBLER 89X-C, 120 days. Old reliable popped 184.4 bu. last year at East Earl, PA. Averaged 158.3 bu. in 1987 farm tests, 165.4 bu. in 1986. Shakes off drought and leaf diseases. Good standup. Deep kernels.

DOEBLER 86X-A, 119 days. Outstanding stalks on this 86X update. Better sheller, too. Hit 196.7 bushels at New Holland, PA last fall, 187.8 bu. at Dover, DE, Quick drydown. Medium ears.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all time corn champ and making new fans every year. In 1987, shelled out 212 bu. at Lewisburg, PA, 164.7 bu. average for 32 farm tests. Great stander. Drought tolerant.

DOEBLER 70X-C, 112 days. Fill silo and pick rest. Large, green plants. Sturdy stalks. Big ears. Coming off 155.5 bu. test year, with a 186.8 bu. top in Ohio. Shrugs off Northern Leaf Blight.

DOEBLER 67X, 108 days. Talk about consistent. 67X averaged 167.3 bu. in 1986 Penna Commercial Standard trials, and 162.5 in 1987. Half sister to 65X. Same strong stalks and disease tolerance. But lower price.

DOEBLER 48X, 90 days. Three time champ of PA Commercial Corn trials. Capable of two, three and four ears per stalk. Averaged 165.2 bu. in 1987 farm trials. Medium height. Excellent stander. Plant thick.

DOEBLER 48X-E, 87 days. Quicker dry down than 48X. Same great stalks. Multiple ears keep it shelling big year after year. 157.2 bu. average last fall in 11 tests, 173.1 bushel top at Saegerstown, PA.

DOEBLER 29X, 79 days. Best choice for shortest season areas of Pennsylvania and New York State. Long ears. Fairly tall. Quick drydown. Outshells many 85 day hybrids. Sorry, supply limited for 1988.

Everything sells in Doebler's bushel bag, of course. Super singles and single crosses can have up to 10% more medium flats than 80,000 unit bags. Now that's a real bargain.

Petitions To Be Presented

land offered for sale instead of the King farm, 2) build on existing one-story structures and 3) conduct further studies of projected enrollment before spending tax money.

McAdams has projected the need for an additional elementary school by 1991, a new middle school by 1996 and a new high school soon after the turn of the century. Citing new growth in the district that straddles the Lancaster-Chester County line, school board president John Hagen said, "We'll probably have to have portable classrooms next year."

Regarding the petition, Hagen stated, "It's (the condemnation) still in litigation. I don't think any of the board members are going to comment to any great extent. When you get into the purchasing of land, personnel matters and things of this type, it's normally not made public."

"We've been working on this for the last year — year and a half. When we went out for the $4 million-plus bond issue, there was money targeted in there for land purchase. We've been looking into this and doing a lot of research and study," Hagen continued.

McAdams was unavailable for comment this week. He has been quoted as expecting the purchase to have an "insignificant effect" on taxes; however, agreeing that farmers would pay more than the $6 or $7 increase that an additional mill would mean to the average resident.

According to Breckbill of the Farmers Association, "The sewage system on the school property won't be big enough for a new school. They'll have to put in an extensive system. I'm not sure what they will have to do with water treatment.

"Here we're sitting in an agricultural area. The Octorara Schools were doing a super job for agriculture," Breckbill continued. Breckbill belongs to Octorara Young Farmers Association, which meets in the school. "Octorara School was noted for agriculture. Where in the world are we going to go for food someday? Once you cover this good earth with cement and tar we aren't going to farm it again."

Attorney Thomas said, "There was an executive order signed by the governor in 1982, saying 'It shall be the policy of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to preserve and protect prime farmland and agencies of the state are ordered to take action consistent with this public policy.'

"We simply have enlisted any help from any source we can get, including the (Pennsylvania) Department of Agriculture. . . We simply have considered soil types and alternatives to see whether or not this is consistent with that executive order.

"We're looking carefully at the school board's application with the (state) Department of Education," Thomas stated. "The Department of Education requires school districts to file reports on long-range plans. There may be Department of Transportation questions about whether its a good idea to travel buses 2,000 miles a day to a central school in Octorara as opposed to spreading them out somewhere."

The school board sold elementary school buildings in Atglen, Christiana, Cochranville, Gum Tree and Parkesburg from 1980 to 1984.

"We're not going to look at land other than land surrounding the school," Hagen stated. "With the growth projections . . . McAdams has projected these and also the state has . . . The state has backed this and said they'd pay for their proportionate share, which I think is a plus."

"There's been a tremendous amount of interest generated by this land grab in terms of the scope of the taking . . . It is a very substantial taking by the school. . ," Thomas declared.

hogs and 80,000 starter pullets per year.

"A farmer should take care of any land he farms as if it was his own," said Kline of the more than 200 acres he rents besides his 41-acre farm.

Gerald Heistand, LCCD Field Technician, praised Kline for implementing conservation measures not only on the home farm, but on the farms he rents. Waterways, gradient terraces, pipe outlet terraces and contour strips were the first order of business for the Klines on each farm they rent.

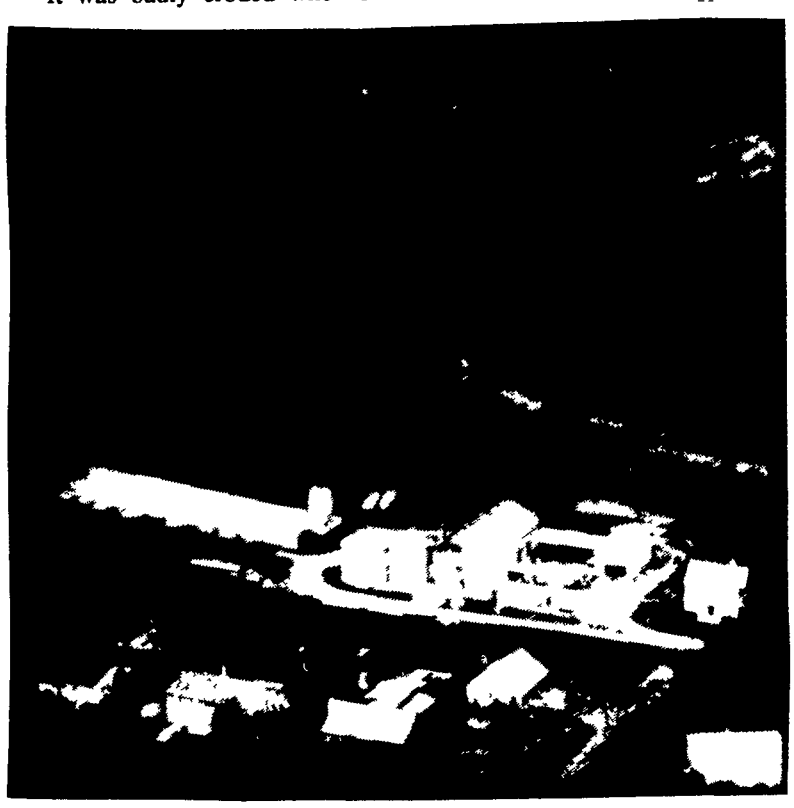
"It was badly eroded when I came here with the slopes we have. You can't farm without top soil. It's as simple as that. You get better crops," explained Paul.

The Klines were pioneers of no-tilling in the Lancaster County area ten years ago when they changed from conventional tilling.

"We had done some reading and I felt it was a real savings in labor. As long as you get your seed into the ground properly we had several years the yeild was better than with plowing. No-tilling holds more moisture in the ground," said Paul.

The Klines' conservation plan proved successful when Hurricane Agnes hit the area in 1972 and caused few problems on the Kline farms. According to Paul, his neighbor saw how well the soil was retained and decided to implement a conservation plan.

"My soil loss, I'm not sure what it is now, but it is acceptable for the government. I'm not sure it is acceptable for me. But as long as you are farming you can't have zero loss," added Paul.



Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award

Mr. and Mrs. John David Martin of Narvon received the Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award for cooperating in the Rural Clean Water and Chesapeake Bay Programs.

The Martin's contour strips of alfalfa and corn, along with rye cover crops, waterways and retention basins do an excellent job of soil conservation on this hilly farm.

No cattle have access to the stream and a wide grass buffer strip along the stream project has stabilized the streambank. The Martin farm is often used as a tour stop to illustrate excellent soil conservation practices.

The Martins' efforts, according to annual water testing, keep their

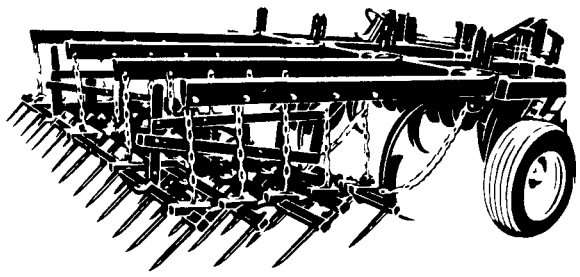
STRENGTH IN TILLAGE

HELP YOUR SOIL BUILDER DO AN EVEN BETTER JOB!



with a BRILLION SPIKE DRAG KIT

The Brillion Spike Drag is especially designed for the Brillion Soil Builder when used in primary tillage. It levels ridges, helps break up cloddy soil and keeps the soil from drying out too rapidly. The smoother surface is also desirable if chemical incorporation is to be done after the coulter-chisel operation.

A special feature of the Brillion Spike Drag is the angle adjustment of the spikes from 20° to 55° in five increments. A sturdy handle is used to move the mechanism. The adjustment feature provides a choice of spike angles to meet varying conditions — from very aggressive to near horizontal (to avoid plugging in heavy residue). Brillion Spike Drag Harrows are available to fit 5, 7, 9, 11 and 13 shank Soil Builders.

property east of Lancaster. The balance sheet handed out at the business meeting showed total assets of the association of $933,224 up from $274,901 in 1986. President William Cannon, said, "We sold 'the barn' and now we have a sum of money we need to invest. But we're finding our way in this."

Cannon said the proofs coming in on the young sires make the future of the Guernsey breed exciting. These proofs along with component pricing form the future of the breed.

Alan Kozak, Business Manager, told the group that since he started in May 1987 the year had been a very good one. The show season was great, and the advancement of the sale of milk by protein pricing in a federal order was encouraging. In addition, the state association initiated the Junior Convention at the National Convention held in May in Pittsburgh. "This was a first, and very well received," Kozak said. "And with component pricing, the prices of Guernsey cattle have increased over the year."

Jersey Queen and the presentation of a host of Junior Member Awards.

Sheila Bissett, 18, from Hickory, PA was crowned the 1988 PA State Jersey Queen. She is the daughter of Robert and Diana Bissett and plans to attend the Penn State Beaver Campus this fall, majoring in engineering. She is currently serving as the news reporter for the PA Junior Jersey Cattle Club and represents District I on the PJJCC Board of Directors.

Sheila chose for her topic in the public speaking portion of the contest, "What are the Advantages of Being a Junior Jersey Cattle Club Member?" She outlined the programs and opportunities available to all youth. She concluded her presentation with, "Dairy farmers are very special people, but those who have Jerseys have all the extras."

Terry Kizer, 17, from Tioga, PA was selected the 1988 PA State Alternate Jersey Queen. Terry is the daughter of Jim and Sharon Kizer and is a Junior at Elkland Area High School. Terry plans to pursue a career in computer graphics. She is active in the PJCC and currently represents District IV on the Board of Directors. Terry chose for her presentation topic, "Why I like Jerseys."

Following the Queen Contest Pennsylvania Junior Jersey Cattle Club President Carolyn Norman, Liberty, presented a variety of youth awards. These included the Jacob N. Bunges Memorial Trophy for highest producing cow to Matt Clark, Enon Valley, for his 3 Yr. Old BB Samson Midnight Meg. On her second lactation "Meg" produced 20,839 pounds of fat-corrected milk. "Meg" was second in this contest last year.

Diane Dice, Fredericksburg, received the Fetterhof Trophy for the outstanding FFA Jersey project and Sheila Bissett, Hickory, won the Robert H. Olmstead Trophy for her outstanding 4-H project. Jody Hewitt, Spring Grove, won the first year project award and her sister Amy was judged to have compiled the best Jersey scrapbook for the year.

Maria Top Of Jersey Calf Sale

BY
GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE — Her sire is Milestone Zorro whose predicted difference for type is +1.2. Her dam is Kalmar Winchester Meghan the second high selling cow in the 1987 PA State Jersey Sale. She's dairy and stylish and will show as a summer yearling this year. Combining all these attributes, it came as no surprise to the crowd of Jersey breeders gathered last Saturday in the Ag Arena when Pleasant Valley Zorro Maria was struck off for the top selling price at the PA State Jersey Calf Sale for $850.

"Maria" was consigned by Pleasant Valley Jerseys, the Lester Martin Family, Chambersburg. Her dam had a 2-06 305 day record of 10,136 pounds of milk with a 5.5% butterfat test. Her granddam was a VG 86% Samson daughter whose best record was at 4-10 305 days of 13,590 pounds of milk and 805 pounds of butterfat. She was purchased by James Heeter, Shade Gap. James will add "Marie" to his list of 4-H projects which already includes another Pleasant Valley heifer that won at last year's State Junior Dairy show.

Second high selling heifer of the sale was Wilderness Duncan Dedura, a fancy September heifer consigned by Robert and Helene Dreisbach, Hamburg. She sold for $800 to Sanara Searight from Hookstown.

"Dedura" is a daughter of Highland Magic Duncan the number 1 bull of the breed for PTI with a +434. Her dam is Wilderness Soldier Boy Badulla who at 2-10 is projected in 305 days at 12,633 pounds of milk 5.5% 705 pounds of butterfat 4.0% and 518 pounds of protein. Her grandam scored EX 90% with 305 2X ME AVG 9L 14095M 673F.

A smooth straight September calf, Penstate Royal 85, commanded the third high price at the sale at $600. Consigned by Penn State University, this very correct daughter of J S Quicksilver Royal went home with Maryland 4-Her Mindy Ann McLaughlin, Taneytown, MD.

"Royal 85's" dam is a Gen Orator of Ogston daughter scored VG 86% and working on her best projected record of over 16,300 of milk as a seven year old.

This year's Sale Chairman was Lester Martin, Chambersburg. The sale averaged $435.40 on 15 calves.

Pleasant Valley Zorro Maria, consigned by Pleasant Valley Jerseys, Chambersburg, topped the 1988 PA Jersey Calf Sale held last Saturday at the Ag Arena. Junior Jersey Club member James Heeter, Shade Gap, paid $850 to add this fancy summer yearling to his showstring. Jersey Registrations Up Nearly Ten Percent

BY
GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE — Churchill's famous quotation, "Never before have so many owed so much to so few," could well summarize the message Jersey breeders from across the state heard at their Annual Meeting held this past weekend at the Toftrees Resort in State College. American Jersey Cattle Club staff, PA' own National Director, and even the PJCC's president all emphasized that more milk in this country than ever before is now being priced on some kind of component pricing plan with financial support from no more than 700 Project Equity investors nationwide.

Project Equity is a producer supported program which works with milk markets to establish pricing plans that will help both the plant and the producer. In 1984, when the last tally was made, dairymen in 30 states across the United States received an additional $16 million for their milk because of the Equity milk marketing program.

In his annual report National Director Don Koontz, Fredonia, stated, "The highlight for the breed in 1987 was the approval of component pricing in the Great Basin Federal Order. We must be mindful of the great input Project Equity had in that implementation. Now there are scheduled hearings to change the orders here in the northeast. . . It is the challenge of National All-Jersey and the Jersey breed to monitor these hearings and have input in them. . . There is a diversity of interest among breeders in the northeast. What happens in these orders changes will be different than what happened in the Great Basin Order."

AJCC Field Representative for the northeast Craig Williams highlighted that there are 47 Project Equity investors in Pennsylvania, one of the highest percentage of supporters to members in his region. However, with the time and input that must get done before the order hearings in September, and with the prospects of the almost 40 orders not yet in review, more monetary support for the program is a must.

In response to these appeals for support and influenced by having acquired several protein markets within the state through the work of Project Equity, the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club voted to donate $1000 to Project Equity, earmarked for working to achieve a change in the Federal Orders in the northeast to be based on component pricing.

Lester Martin, Chambersburg, representing the Cumberland Valley Jersey Breeders presented a check to Project Equity in the sum of $500. Martin noted that while PA Jersey Cattle Club Field Representative Florence Robinson congratulates Wallace Mellott, Harrisonville, on receiving the 1988 Distinguished Service Award. Mellott was honored with the award for his years of breeding and promoting the Jersey breed. The presentation was made at the PJCC's Annual Meeting held last weekend.

Jersey breeders from across the state received recognition for their herd's outstanding production at the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club's Annual Meeting held last weekend in State College. Those receiving awards for either high herd averages, high cows, or both were (l-r): Jay Clark, Glen Kenny, Jeff and Janet Peters, Debbie Moose, and Helene Dreisbach.

Jersey Registrations

the check came from the Cumberland Valley Jersey Breeders the funds were really from all the consignors who have supported the CVJB's July 4th Sale series since commissions from the sales had helped to raise this money.

Koontz also related that the breed had this past year supported a dozen research projects investing $35,000 in research directly affecting the Jersey breed. The Board of Directors has set a goal of establishing a research trust in the sum of $1 million dollars. Interest from the trust will then be used for financial support for Jersey research project. James Cavanaugh will spearhead the fund raising efforts.

Koontz told the crowd that there are now over 50,000 Jerseys on official test with a national herd average of 13,222M and 623F on an ME basis. Last year the breed processed 53,853 registrations, 9.6% more than in 1986. There are now three active breeder organized young sire sampling groups with two others in formation. And, plans are now underway for the AJCC to build it's own office building in Columbus.

The nominating committee recommended that the current slate of officers be re-elected for another one-year term. Those serving as PJCC officers for 1988 are: President, David Norman; First Vice-President, John McConnell; Second Vice-President, Leon Sollenberger; and Secretary-Treasurer, Florence Robinaon.

President Norman presented a number of production awards for high cows and high herd averages this past year. These included:

High Herd for milk, fat, and protein: (20-49 Cows) - William Yoder, 36.1 15,182M 720F 551P.

High Herd for fat: (50-99 cows) - Robert Dreisbach, 91.4 720F.

High Herd for milk: (50-99 cows) - Eugene and Brian Harris, 15,217M.

High Herd for protein: (50-99 cows) - Spruce Row Farm, 55.6 555P.

High Herd for milk, fat, protein: (100 cows and Over) - Kenny Dairy Farm, 160.0 12,956M 633F 497P.

High cow for protein in the state received the Sam Williams Award. She was Spring Run Bounty Marla, owned by Gerald and Debbie Moose, New Wilmington. This 5-Yr.-old made 20,009M 965F 761P.

The Norman Family Award for high Cow Performance Index in the state went for an unprecedented third time to Robert Ulrich, Quarryville. The winning herd must have the highest CPI average and still meet the criteria of having at least 20% of the herd bred to young sires, at least 80% of the herd must be homebred, and the herd's RHA must exceed the state average for milk, fat, and protein.

(Turn to Page A38)

Lester Martin, left, representing the Cumberland Valley Jersey Breeders, presented a check for $500 from the CVJB to AJCC Area Field Representative Craig Williams for Project Equity. The donation from the Cumberland Valley Jersey Breeders to Project Equity was in appreciation for the work that was done in securing a protein market in the members area and to help continue the job of obtaining equitable milk prices from the marketplace.

"Serving The Farmer For Over 14 Years"

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

- (front page picture) Congratulating each other are Robert Fahnestock and Dean Hoffer with Andrew Hackman in the center. Fahnestock was presented a trophy as the best land judge in the York-Lancaster County FFA region and Hoffer was given a special citation for his conservation speech. Hackman was given a plaque as the Outstanding Conservation Farmer in Lancaster County.

- (front page headline) Soil District President Predicts 1958 to be "Biggest Year Ever".

Pointing out that such events as the National Plowing Matches and Conservation Exposition, Soil Stewardship Week, and that the assistance of additional groups such as the League of Women Voters is being obtained, the president of the Lancaster County Soil Conservation District, Amos H. Funk, R1 Millersville, predicted that this will be the "biggest year we've ever had."

- (headline) Conestoga Farmer Finds Strips Are Money Savers.

The steeply rolling hills in Conestoga Township, southern Lancaster County, are covered with a loose soil that is especially prone to wash in heavy rains. Not only are gutters a fairly common sight, but more important, sheet erosion is gradually washing away land on the top of hills.

John C. Kendig used to see much of his good topsoil on the road after each rain. It bothered him. As a matter of fact, it bothered him doubly.

First of all, that topsoil was his, and when it was gone, it meant that his crop yields would go too. Secondly, it cost the highway department some $40 or $50 a rainfall to clean the mud and dirt from the road. This added to his tax bill.

That was in 1940, just after he had started to operate the family farm.

Now it's a different story. Of the 117 acres in the farm, 90 are in contour strips. An additional 22 acres are in permanent sod pasture and the remaining acres are in the farm homestead, lanes and a new pond.

The strips have been in some 16 years now. Kendig said that he was one of the first in the neighborhood to start using contour strips. From the way he talked, he is still one of the most satisfied and proudest.

On-Farm Composting Conference

LANCASTER — The management of wastes from our farming operations is more important today than ever before. Water quality, odors, fly control, and crop nutrient management are all issues we are going to have to deal with now, and in the future. Composting wastes opens a number of opportunities for us to "market" wastes from our operations. Composting can create a cash crop by converting manure and other waste materials into marketable soil conditioners in demand by the public.

Experts will speak on composting procedures and how it fits on the farm. Farmers who have successful composting operations will also share information.

The meeting will be held Thursday, March 24 at the Farm and Home Center Auditorium from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Lunch is free, however please call Mitch Woodward at the Lancaster Extension Office (394-6851) by Wednesday, March 23 so that we can plan for lunch.

Jersey Registrations

Dr. Duane Norman announced that a similar award will now be offered on a national level.

Culminating the awards presentation was the presentation of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club's 1988 Distinguished Service Award to Wallace Mellott, Harrisonville. Wallace and his wife Sara Mae established their herd with the purchase of one Jersey calf originally intented to just be a family cow in 1953. Since that time the Mellott's have developed one of the most respected herds in the state. Mellott's advice to young people who want to start in the dairy business is, "Get a good Registered Jersey from a reliable Jersey breeder. Give her everything she needs and she will make you a profitable dairyman."

Special Service Award

Chairman of the Lancaster County Commissioners, James Huber, presented a special recognition award on behalf of the conservation district to Peg Wentworth, the 1987 president of the League of Women Voters. The league's efforts in soil conservation, agricultural preservation, the Chesapeake Bay Cleanup and other environmental projects were praised by Huber.

Outstanding Service Awards

Presented with the Outstanding Service Awards were Mike Good and Allen Geyer. Good and Geyer of Elizabethtown were honored for their work as volunteer Youth Conservation Staff Members. Geyer is the senior counselor and Good is the assistant director for the school.

Special recognition went to Janet Schaefer of Millersville who recently retired after 37 years of service to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Outstanding Stormwater Management Award

The Moravian Manor of Lititz was honored by the conservation district and presented with the Outstanding Stormwater Management Award for their Moravian Green adition to their existing life care facility in Lititz Borough

The LCCD also presented commendations to the Borough of Lititz, Derck and Edson Associates, the landscape architecture firm and to Andrews Excavating for this exemplary project.

The project was chosen because of the implementation of measures to control a previous flooding condition in the area. The basin, which is the key to the project, collects water from 21 acres. It is designed to control a 10-year storm. The basin is fitted with an emergency spillway capable of passing the 100-year storm.

The following farms were recognized for having cows with a lifetime production of over 200,000 lbs. of milk; however, they were removed from the herd during the 1987 testing year. These herds are as follows: Fiely Farms, Townville; Black Pond Farms, Saegertown; Morrell Farms, Cochranton; Robert Marzka, Cambridge Springs; O-Darlan Farm, Linesville; Clark Duncan, Meadville; and Roy Douthitt, Meadville.

Cablevey - the PROFIT CONVERTER

automates feeding

Satisfied CABLEVEY Customers Chose CABLEVEY Over Other Barn Feeders Because:

1.) CABLEVEY Measures Feed By Weight - No other barn feeder on the market actually weighs the amount of feed delivered to each cow.

2.) CABLEVEY Saves Energy - 1 motor and 1 system handle many livestock operations.

3.) CABLEVEY Reduces Feed Separation - Unlike flex augers, feed separation is minimal - that means a more uniform ration to all cows.

4.) CABLEVEY Keeps Feed Fresh - "Trip After Fill" operation means no feed is delivered to the drops until feeding time.

5.) CABLEVEY Takes the Corners - Specially designed 90° corners allow efficient system operation for any barn layout.

6.) CABLEVEY Installs Easily - No need for installing steel beam track to support heavy feed hopper loads.

Functional And Decorative Baskets Woven With Pride

BY SHARON SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

WESTMINSTER — With Easter just around the bend, Peter Cottontail is probably selecting that indispensable accessory, the basket, for his hop down the 'Bunny Trail.' Sharon Schaeffer of Westminster, Maryland, weaves baskets that even a bunny with the most discriminating taste will find irresistable.

As a weaver of baskets, Sharon Schaeffer is accomplished in the craft, with her creations featured in area craft shops, mail order catalogues, and in a book entitled Baskets, by Nancy Schiffer, 1984.

Sharon, an art teacher at Westminster High School, said she first became interested in baskets eight years ago. She learned the basic skills along with two of her friends who became her business partners. "There was a time when I produced more than one basket per day," she recalled. "Then I made the transition from shops and craft circuit, to being an independent consignment dealer." She sells her baskets in Maryland and Pennsylvania shops and out of her home. "Here and in Pennsylvania, people are respective of the craft," said Sharon. "They realize that baskets are functional as well as decorative."

"I use baskets all the time," said Sharon. While others tote their belongings in canvas bags, Sharon conveniently tosses son Curtis' needs in a market basket and off to the babysitter they go.

A friend who lives in town carries her mail in one of Sharon's hand crafted baskets. Nine-month-old Katie has a basket full of toys, and she can even climb into the largest basket made by her mother to play with her 3-year-old brother Curtis.

Many think of baskets as being either of the Easter or laundry variety, but Sharon is quick to explain that there are many more varieties of useful and decorative baskets. "Sometimes this is called a butt basket," Sharon said pointing to the two humps of the traditional Appalachian Egg basket. "It's the biggest seller, and I enjoy making it the most." The flat Pie basket or Double Pie basket is made for transporting delectable pastries with care. Cheese baskets have a large open weave so the liquids can drip through.

"There are stories behind most of the baskets," Sharon said. Farm women used hen baskets to take their hens to market. The key basket has one flat side so that it can be hung on the wall by the door so you can toss in the mail or your keys when you come in. The square and rectangular baskets are market baskets."

Sharon uses natural materials when weaving her baskets. The reeds of various widths are mostly ash, and the handles are oak. Sometimes Sharon twists reed for the handles. She can make a basket in an evening. She said, "A basket is something you can pick up and put down. I do it in bits and pieces as I am walking around." When Sharon has many orders to fill for a show or an exhibit, she said she produces them in "assembly line fashion. I make all the handles at once, and so on. It's faster that way."

Sharon explained that "the hardest part of making a basket is making the structure to weave on. I usually make a God's Eye to hold together the ribs — the part that you weave over and under."

Sharon noted that a basket weaver can often be identified by the details in the weave. There are individual looks for baskets. It's like a signature." Sharon also signs and dates each one of her baskets.

Traditionally, baskets are all natural in color. "As they age, they get darker," she explained.

Sharon also collects old baskets and looks for baskets in good shape with a natural darkened color. "Sometimes people ask about repairing old baskets. The general rule of thumb is, don't do it." When new materials are used to repair a hole in a basket, it may decrease the value of it as a collector's item. "It never has the same patina," she explained. "Old baskets in good shape sell for as high as $90. The average in this area is $50."

The baskets that Sharon weaves are functional, but are often purchased for their decorative quality. She said, "I have started adding bows and ribbons, and I like to experiment with color. It's just like dying fabric. The reed will take the color because it is porous and absorbent." Sharon uses Batik dyes for vibrant colors, and Rit dye for lighter shades. "You can use anything that will stain," she explained. She has experimented with coffee, tea, and raspberries, among other natural sources.

The largest basket that Sharon has made holds both children with room to spare. It won a contest at the shopping center for the largest basket. The top hoop is over two feet in diameter. The smallest basket she has made is about four inches.

"There is a peaked interest in baskets for Easter," commented Sharon. Easter at the Schaeffer home is more than what's in the basket, it's the basket itself. She noted that her 3-year-old son has never had the same basket twice.

Sharon's interests are not limited to sheep. With her husband, Frank, she raises a flock of Dorset sheep. "We had a good birthing season," she reported. Frank added "We had six sets of twins and one set of triplets so we have over a 200 percent growth rate."

The Schaeffers are pleased with

The Shaeffers have had a successful lambing season with 6 sets of twins & 1 set of triplets in their Dorset flock.

their Dorset flock, and attest to the fact that the breed has "live lambs. They have a good disposition, and they're not real big sheep, so they don't intimidate Curtis." Frank is using selective breeding in preparation for showing in the future. Sharon said, "By the time Curtis is in 4-H, we'll be ready."

The Schaeffers sell their wool through the Maryland Wool Pool. Actually, Sharon's career in crafts began with an interest in off loom fiber weaving. Now she hopes to use the wool from their own sheep to get back into working with fibers. She said, "Frank gave me a beautiful spinning wheel, with that in mind."

Even with her busy schedule at school and at home, helping husband, Frank, raise their flock of Dorset sheep, Sharon still finds time to do gallery shows and exhibits, and give workshops on basket weaving in her home, at civic organizations, and at the Carroll County Farm Museum. She instructs adults and children in the craft. Sharon Schaeffer may be contacted for more information about basket weaving at her home address: 1643 Old Taneytown Road, Westminster, MD 21157. PA Vegetable Marketing Program

YORK — Prepare to vote on the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing Program.

Why? The program will provide promotion and research funds to insure a bright future for the Pennsylvania vegetable industry.

Who will be affected? All growers who produce vegetables for sale on one or more acres (or 1000 or more square feet of greenhouse space) will be included. Crops commonly classified as vegetables in the market place plus pumpkins, gourds and Indian corn but excluding white potatoes are covered under the program.

What is the assessment rate? The rate is $25 per grower plus $1.50 per acre for each acre over 10 acres (or each 1000 square feet of greenhouse over 10,000 square feet) payable by October 31 of each year.

Who administers the program? The Commodity Marketing Board, comprised of the Secretary of Agriculture and four growers from each of the three regions of the state (west, central, and east) has the primary decision making authority.

How will the money be spent? Funds will generally be used to benefit processing, fresh-market and greenhouse growers in proportion to the amount received from each group.

For more information, contact the PA Vegetable Growers Association (717) 473-8468 or call the Extension Service at 757-9657.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We left home on a sunny afternoon and my husband and I drove to Buena Vista, Virginia where we spent the night. It was rather late when we left as I cooked for the men and a hoof trimmer who came to our dairy farm.

The next morning after breakfast we got on the Blue Ridge Parkway. There were many lookouts on the Parkway and some unusual names were Thunder Ridge Overlook, Onion Mt. Overlook, Headforemost Overlook, Falling Water Cascade and Bearwallow Gap. We were pleasantly surprised to see three large deer along the edge of the road. We drove to Roanoke where we got on a main route south. After hours of 65 miles per hour driving and competing with hoards of big 18 wheelers for a space of highway, we arrived at our son's home near Atlanta. He was outside watering some pecan trees that he had just planted. He and his little son showed us their large beautiful home on a big lot.

The next morning we drove to our daughter's home which was 8 miles away. Here we had another new home to tour. She and her husband have furnished it very tastefully with many accessories collected over the years.

We saw downtown Atlanta and the large A.T.&T. plant where family members work. There are many big homes in the surrounding area and the Governor's mansion is the biggest.

For lunch I ordered a meal of catfish, turnip greens and fried okra with cornbread muffins. Afterwards, we stopped in Atlanta at "The Wren's Nest" which was the home of Joel Chandler Harris, of Br'er Rabbit and Br'er Fox when he worked at "The Countryman" plantation and listened to negroes and their ballads.

Lemon's Refreshing Tastes

Children often wrinkle their noses at the tart taste of fresh lemon. But as they grow older, they discover what adults having always known, that lemon offers a refreshing flavor, rich in vitamin C. Of all the members of the citrus family, lemon is the most versatile for menu planning. Numerous uses for juice, rind, extract and concentrate are given in the individual recipes submitted by readers. Since lime is so closely related to lemon, I've also included a recipe featuring lime.

LEMONADE ANGEL DESSERT

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
Dash salt
2 beaten eggs
½ cup water
1 6-ounce can frozen lemonade, concentrate
1 14½-ounce can evaporated milk, chilled icy cold and whipped
1 10-inch tube angel food cake

Mix gelatin, sugar, and salt. Add eggs and water. Cook and stir until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly; remove from heat. Stir in concentrate. Chill until partially set; fold into whipped milk. Add a few drops of yellow food coloring. Rub the brown crumbs off the cake; tear cake into bite-sized pieces.

Cover the bottom of a 10-inch tube pan with a thin layer of gelatin mixture. Arrange ⅓ of cake on top. Pour ⅓ of remaining gelatin over it. Repeat. Chill firm. Unmold. Serves 12.

ANSWER - Dorothy M. Knaub, Red Lion, is concerned about the use of paraffin in candy making. She enclosed a newspaper clipping that said that paraffin is unhealthy for consumption. Paraffin is a wax substance with a petroleum or shale oil base. The use of paraffin has been illegal in the candy industry for many years. Previously paraffin had been added to chocolate to harden the chocolate coating so that it would not melt off. Today, the same results can be attained by using real milk chocolate, chocolate chips or confectionery coatings. Mrs. Knaub said she has used the confectionery chocolate to cover many types of candies and it works well. If you cannot find the confectionery chocolate in your area, check with Wilbur's Chocolate, Lititz.

ANSWER - Mrs. Doug Martin requested a recipe for Black Forest Cheesecake.

1½ cup chocolate wafer crumbs
¼ cup butter, melted
3 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
1½ cup sugar
4 eggs
½ teaspoon cherry-flavored extract
½ (1 ounce) squares semi-sweet chocolate
½ cup sour cream
Whipped cream
Maraschino cherries with stems

Combine chocolate wafer crumbs and butter, mixing well. Firmly press into bottom and 1-inch up sides of 9-inch springform pan.

Beat cream cheese with a mixer until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar, mixing well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in cherry flavoring and mix until well blended. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 350 degrees for 1 hour. Place cake on wire rack and let cool at room temperature.

Place chocolate in top of a double boiler. Bring water to a boil. Reduce heat to low. Cook until chocolate melts. Cool slightly. Stir in sour cream. Spread chocolate mixture evenly over top. Chill thoroughly. Garnish with whipped cream and cherries.

Shoppers Can Cause Higher Food Prices

When food prices go up, the food shopper never seems to get the blame. And yet, poor shopping practices can contribute to high food costs.

For example, many shoppers who keep a spotless home, think nothing of cluttering up a grocery store. They will leave a jar of pickles on the flour shelf, a can of tuna on the bread shelf, a bag of grapes on the magazine rack, or a box of frozen strawberries with the canned peaches. They just changed their minds, that's all. But shoppers who are too careless and thoughtless to return items to their proper place drive up the cost of food.

Why? Because the store manager has to throw away defrosted foods and unrefrigerated produce. He has to hire a clerk to keep the shelves tidy. And he has to raise prices just a little bit to cover these extra... and unnecessary expenses.

Other shoppers must test everything in the produce department. They will snap the beans, pinch the tomatoes, squeeze the bananas, and strip the corn. As a result, damaged produce must be thrown away and a small mark-up must be put on all other produce to make up the loss.

One of the highest cost items in food retailing is shoplifting, or just plain stealing. Every year many large food stores plan to lose one percent of their gross sales because of this problem. And to make up the loss, prices are raised.

It is a shame that people who are not guilty of careless shopping must share the costs, and the blame, with those who are.

The Versatile Muffin

Of all the baked goods we prepare in our kitchens, muffins are probably the easiest and most trouble-free -- a true convenience food. They can be made on a whim, because their basic ingredients (flour, milk, butter or oil, and eggs) are usually on hand, and they rarely take more than 30 minutes from start to finish.

Any number of fresh or dried fruits, nuts, whole-grain flours, and grains can make their way into a muffin. Sour cream, yogurt, buttermilk, or fruit and vegetable juices can replace milk as the basic liquid; honey, maple syrup or molasses can be used instead of white or brown sugar. Each combination of ingredients yield muffins with their own unique texture, flavor, and crumb.

Muffins can be just as nutritious and satisfying as bread. When made with whole-grain flour, they are rich in protein and vitamins -- more so, in fact than many breads because of the eggs and dairy products they contain.

Success with muffins requires only a few simple instructions. A good muffin should have a uniform texture, and the top should rise to a rounded peak. The secret is to handle the batter as little as possible and to make sure your oven is preheated. Too much stirring will yield a muffin that is heavy. Never stir the batter until it is smooth, stir just until the dry ingredients are moistened. The batter will be lumpy, but these lumps will disappear during baking.

There is no limit to the possibilities for variation. Whether bursting with blueberries or subtly seasoned with cheese, muffins are always appealing. Sweet or savory, light to dense, they make a welcome addition to any table and at any meal. Why not serve them often?

Win Prizes For Trees

ULSTER — Cake Decorating, an art often practiced by unrecognized culinary artists, is coming out of the kitchen to the exhibit of JUST TREES at the upcoming Maple Festival on April 23 and 24, at the Troy Fair Grounds (Bradford County). The cake must be decorated to look like a tree or with a repeated design of trees, and may be from cup cake size to 22 inches by 26 inches.

The non-juried event is sponsored by the Bradford County Forest Landowners' Association and the Bradford County Conservation District for the purpose of giving a fun challenge to young and old alike to "make a tree." No entry fee will be charged. Viewers' Choice awards will be given.

Other categories in addition to cake decorating will be sculpture or relief in any kind of medium including live or dried plant materials. One dimensional "trees" are being sought in pictures or drawings which may be brushed, etched, or burned on any media.

Needlework is still another category with the tree as the main or repeated design done in crewel, embroidery, needlepoint, patchwork, applique, loomed, quilted, knitted or crocheted.

Anyone who owns interesting "trees," either old or new, which they themselves did not make may enter them in the commercial category. (Plastic Christmas trees are not wanted.)

For information please contact Jane Bresee, R.D.#1, Box 131, Ulster, Pa. 18850 or phone 717-358-3346. Applications must be sent to her by April 1.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

To liven up a winter Sunday afternoon, make a batch of taffy in your microwave. Then gather family or friends for a good old-fashioned taffy pull. Or microwave a batch of hard candy and let everyone shape it into ribbons, buttons and lollipops.

Go ahead and have fun with today's recipes. I've included specific directions in each for the candy "Pullers or Shapers." For the cooks: follow recipes exactly and keep in mind the following candy making hints.

Make taffy or hard candy on a cool, dry day. If you try it on a hot humid day, candy will get sticky.

Use a large microwave-safe and heat-resistant glass container. Anchor Hocking's two-quart glass Batter Bowl (really about 2½ quarts) is ideal for either recipe.

Use a microwave candy thermometer for easy cooking and best results. Remember, you can't leave a regular candy thermometer in during microwaving, and a temperature probe doesn't register high enough. You can use the old cold water test, but it's messy, time consuming and not as accurate.

Cover dish with plastic wrap and microwave on High until candy is boiling. Then stir well to dissolve sugar. Continue microwaving, uncovered, until candy reaches the proper doneness. Microwave time in each recipe is just a guide. If your microwave wattage output is lower than 650 watts, you may need to add as much as one-third more cooking time to these recipes. Check for final doneness by reading the microwave candy thermometer at eye level.

After boiling has stopped, stir in coloring and flavoring. Use oil-based flavoring (not water-based extract) for best flavor and to prevent stickiness. Oil-based flavoring is found in drug stores or candy-making shops.

If you want a variety of flavors, it's best to make several small batches the size of today's recipes and flavor each differently rather than try to divide a larger batch.

If either candy gets too hard to work with, soften it by placing the pan in your conventional oven at 350° F for a few minutes.

Salt Water Taffy

1 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup light corn syrup
⅓ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt (optional)
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
½ -1 teaspoon oil-based flavoring
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Stir together granulated sugar and cornstarch in microwave-safe 2-quart measure or deep bowl. Stir in corn syrup, water and salt. If using powdered food coloring, add now. Microwave (High), covered, 3½ to 4 minutes or until boiling. Stir well. Microwave (High), uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes until candy thermometer registers 265° F (hard ball stage). When bubbling has stopped, stir in margarine and flavoring. If using liquid food coloring, add now. Pour onto lightly buttered jelly roll pan. When cool enough to handle, pull and shape. Lightly dust finished pieces with powdered sugar. Wrap pieces in waxed paper and store in a tightly covered metal or glass container at room temperature. Or, store unwrapped pieces in tightly covered glass container in refrigerator or freezer. Makes about 1 pound.

To pull and shape: Let candy cool about 10 to 15 minutes. To test, press with your finger. When a dent remains, candy is ready for pulling. Divide it into several pieces (depending on number of "Pullers" available). Pull with lightly buttered fingertips and thumbs until candy is satiny and light-colored. Keep pulling candy into a long rope, folding half of candy back onto other half until candy is hard to pull. Form into a rope and cut with a lightly oiled scissors into 1-inch pieces, letting pieces fall into a dish of the powdered sugar. Continue as above.

Festive Hard Candy*

½ cup hot water
¾ cup light corn syrup
2 cups granulated sugar
About ¼ teaspoon powdered food coloring or 2-3 drops liquid food coloring
¼ -½ teaspoon oil-based flavoring
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Combine water, syrup and granulated sugar in microwave-safe 2-quart measure or deep bowl. If using powdered food coloring, add now. Microwave (High), covered, 6½ to 7 minutes or until boiling. Stir well. Microwave (High), uncovered, 10 to 14 minutes until candy thermometer registers 300° F (hard crack stage). Mixture will turn light golden brown. When bubbling has stopped stir in flavoring. If using liquid food coloring, add it now. Pour into lightly oiled 9x13-inch pan. When cool enough to handle, mold into shapes. Or when completely cool, break into pieces. Mix with powdered sugar to keep pieces from sticking together. Store in a tightly covered metal or glass container at room temperature. Makes about 1½ pounds.

Anise candy (as requested by a Dubuque, Iowa, reader): Use red [illegible]oring and anise oil-based flavor.

To shape candy: Let candy set about 10 minutes. Check coolness with a metal spoon or lightly oiled fingers — lift edges gently and pull gently. When candy is warm to the touch but still pliable, mold pieces into squares with your forefinger and thumb, roll pieces into round balls, flatten round balls into buttons, pull and shape pieces like ribbon candy, or pull a large piece into a rope and cut with a lightly oiled scissors. Continue as above.

Lollipops: Pour hot mixture into lollipop molds. Or shape partially cooled mixture around lollipop sticks.

THANK YOU — HERSHEY EQUIPMENT CO.

Gee... that Hershey Company of Lancaster, Pa. was good to us. They took care of all the arrangements for the facilities, from setting up the contacts for financing, permits, and excavating down to constructing the building and installing all the equipment. They even got me a landscaper. We really appreciated their thoughtfulness.

Giving Seeing-Eye Puppies A Loving Start

BY LISA RISSER

LITITZ — There is nothing so precious as a life, yet one without meaning is a life wasted. Organizations that help bring purpose to peoples' lives are special indeed. One Lancaster County group helps provide vision, of a sort, to sightless people. The organization is the 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club.

Club members are responsible for taking an eight-week-old puppy and caring for it until it is 11 to 14 months old, at which time it goes back to Seeing Eye Inc. people who train it. "Our function is growth, socialization, and basic training of the puppies," said Ellen Curry, leader of the club. "They work better if they are raised in loving homes rather than kennels."

Socialization is perhaps the most important part of the club's functions. They take the puppies on outings to familiarize them with the environment, people, and other dogs. "The more accustomed they are to getting out, the easier it is for them to adjust when they're in the harness," Ellen explained.

In addition to a monthly meeting that includes a business and a training session, the club has at least one outside activity. These activities are prearranged and include visits to nursing homes, restaurants, and shopping malls. Several members come equipped with a clean-up kit complete with paper towels, plastic bags, and spray disinfectant for accidents.

The puppies' behavior on these trips ranges from calm and content to rowdy and rambunctious, yet for the most part they are extremely well-behaved. Much of their good behavior results from the time spent with their caretaker. The 4-H'er is asked to spend at least 15 minutes each day with the puppy working on basic lessons such as sit, down, come, rest (similar to stay), and forward, which is like heel, but different as the dog is supposed to walk slightly ahead of its blind master. "The kids aren't allowed to teach the puppy tricks that will confuse it later when it is trained to harness," Ellen added.

If a puppy should happen not to be trainable, the members aren't especially worried, according to Ray Little, the club's trainer. "The Seeing Eye people would rather have a rough dog than one that is overtrained," he commented. "They teach intelligent disobedience. An obedient dog will do what its master wants, no matter what. Now, if the person wants to cross the street, yet traffic is coming, you don't want an obedient dog, you want one trained in intelligent disobedience. What the Seeing Eye people are after is socialization."

Several 4-H'ers and their charges take a short break at the nursing home before going on to the next floor.

Minerva Bergman, left, known to her friends and family as Nanna, pets Emma, a Golden Retriever pup, cared for by Rebecca Curry.

This process of becoming a Seeing Eye Dog begins at the breeding camp, where German Shepherds and Labrador Retrievers are bred. Also available are Golden Retriever pups, which come from an outside source. The two-month-old puppies then are assigned to a 4-H'er. If a member wants a specific breed or sex, he usually needs to wait to get that puppy; but most children don't choose to wait. The puppies are named before the 4-H'er receives it as Seeing Eye officials identify litters by names beginning with the same letter.

Along with the puppy, members are given a leash, collar, brush, vitamins, and a bed chain to secure the animal to the 4-H'er's bed at night. In addition, the family is given a quarterly allowance for food, and all the veterinarian bills are paid by the parent organization.

Around nine months or so later, depending on when space opens in the training classes, the puppy is returned to the Seeing Eye organization. At this point, the dog is given a physical and X-rayed for hip dysplasia, a congential deformity that leads to arthritis and a lifelong overall weakness. If the animal is rejected for any reason, it is neutered or spade, and the 4-H'er that cared for it receives the first opportunity to own the dog, free of charge.

If the 4-H'er doesn't want to keep the puppy, there is a waiting list for puppies. Here again, the puppies are given rather than sold to the dog lover. To be put on the waiting list, a person submits a written application and must go through a telephone and personal interview. "The Seeing Eye people are very careful about who gets the dogs," Ellen stressed.

Josh Curry and Helga, a Golden Lab, take time to talk to resident Abe Coverman.

The next step involves a three- to four-month training period where the dog learns to operate in a harness.

It's tough for members to give up their puppies but, according to Ellen, "the benefits outweigh the disadvantages. You're especially proud to watch them work in the harness."

According to club members, it is hard to judge whether a puppy will do well in the harness: temperament really doesn't factor into it. "We had a Golden Lab, sweet as she was, we just didn't think she'd settle down to the harness," related Ellen. "But when she got done with her training, the trainers could not say enough about her. She did really well."

The Seeing Eye Dog organization needs a whole range of dispositions and temperaments as Ellen explained, "A 19-year-old in college is not going to want a laid-back dog. He wants a dog with drive that will really step out. A woman who doesn't get out much would require a calmer animal."

Most of the club members joined the group because they love dogs, and while that also is a primary reason for remaining in the club, it is not the only one. The 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club has a social purpose. Its members help give sight to blind people.

For more information on joining the Lancaster County 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club, which also includes Juanita, Dauphin, and York counties, contact Ellen at 717/786-1449.

Make It Yourself With Wool

DENVER, COLO. — With the spotlight center stage in San Antonio, TX, during the First American Sheep Industry Convention, the winners for the national Make It Yourself With Wool contest were named as they modeled their wool garments for a crowd of 600 people.

Nationally, 3,500 young men and women compete in Make It Yourself With Wool Contests every year.

Placing top for the senior division was Holly Foster of Sauk Center, MN, a college student from Concordia College. Second place went to Susan Wenman of Denton, TX, and third place to Jill Swiggum of Monroe, WI, fourth place to Stephanie Sibbett of Visalia, CA, and fifth place to Dawn Mack of Max, ND.

The junior winner was Mollie Duncan of Star, TX, a 16-year-old student at Star High School. Second place went to Erin Biscoft of Selah, WA, third to Jennifer Stairs of Acme, Pa, fourth place to Cammile Price of Provo, UT, and fifth place to Cynthia Legg of Deleplane, VA.

Strikingly bold and colorful garments included suits, dresses and coats. Each was judged for its construction as well as uniqueness and style, and on the contestant's composure.

The 28-year-old competition was started by the National Wool Growers Auxiliary and the American Wool Council. It is hosted and conducted entirely through volunteer help.

Beef Council Sponsors Contest

ROME, N.Y. — The New York Beef Industry Council has expanded it's joint promotion with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council for Gourmet Cheeseburgers. To encourage dairy princesses and others involved in county dairy promotion to make retail store visits during April, a contest has been developed with $1,700 in prize money. The Dairy Princess, alternates, dairy maids, dairy ambassadors and others involved at the county dairy promotion level will accrue a point for every store-hour spent in the dairy and meat departments. The county with the highest number of points wins the top prize of $750. Second place county receives $500 for their county promotion treasury. The three runners up each receive $150 credited to their ADA promotion account.

County dairy promotion groups in New York State who wish to participate should contact Shirley Griffith at The American Dairy Association & Dairy Council, 472 South Salina Street Syracuse, NY 13202. Phone 315-472-9143.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Information. Communication, Education. Dissemination.

All the above are beginning to equal inundation.

We're talking paper blizzard here, friends. Mountains of printed material. Volumes, reams, sheaves to study; shuffle, and stuff away for future reference. Maybe. But it's gotta be filed just in case.

Unless your household environment is considerably different than that here in our old farmhouse, the paper raining down daily poses a constant threat of untimely burial.

Increasing time I've spent away recently, on agriculture business, has only enhanced and enlarged the difficulty in finding the kitchen table, countertop, and office desk under the stacks of printed matter.

Family members are more than eager to help haul in the daily deposits of the end result of the pulpwood industry. Picking up the mail still hints of the surprise aspect of Christmas or birthday.

But it all falls back on Mom to sort. Except for envelopes which bear checks. Those disappear from the mail stack faster than snow on a June day. Otherwise, the family - bless their hearts - faithfully and methodically savesd all other mail for Mom to see, sort, dispose of and dispense with.

Marching into the household via the Paper Parade route come two daily newspaper deliveries, several weeklies, two or three weekly newsletters, a dozen or so monthly paid magazine subscriptions, countless additional freebie publications from dairy and general ag organizations, equipment, seed, and supply firms. And that's just the "printed matter" stuff.

Neatly folded inside the larger size materials, carefully arranged by our long-suffering rural mail deliverer, are the first-class sealed items, like checks, bills, letters, cards, pertinent business mail and a never-ending supply of miscellaneous "junk mail."

Junk mail is that stuff that announces that "Ms. Bupp (Budd, Buff, Bump, Butt) may be the lucky winner of a million dollars." (She hasn't won any yet-- under any of those names.) Even more aggravating than computer generated junk mail is computer generated junk mail with your name misspelled.

Our trash cans eat well off daily handfuls of the stuff. Or, in a more playful mood, we stuff junk mail back into the accompanying postage-paid envelope and return it - at their expense - to the sender of the stuff. Junk mail thus offers easy disposal compared to the rest of the blizzard.

Bills, checks, meeting notices, queries, invitations, etc., all demand appropriate attention. Income and expense paperwork eventually wends its way through our accounting system to spend eternity in that great Filing Cabinet in the Sky (translate: attic).

Some paper - like meeting notices - goes up on our strategically located bulletin boards, to eventually be covered in a day or two by more notices, cartoons, sale ads, and reminder notes. Periodic clearing off of these handy reminder sites inevitably turns up notice of some item that needed attention three weeks ago. Or longer.

As an avid consumer and a contributor in the word-generating business, I confess to inability to pitch periodicals without at least a hasty flip-through. Anything containing even faintly interesting material earns a reprieve in the "waiting to be read" stack.

Taking inventory of a recent accumulation of "waiting to be read" printed matter tallied nine dairy and seven general agriculture magazines, six newsletters, four catalogs, two equipment farm monthlies, a pair of computer publications, one township periodical and my first issue of the American Association of Retired Persons magazine.

This was just the "kitchen" stack; a somewhat smaller pile-up waits in the living room.

One of these days the stacks of communication, information, education and dissemination is going to slide sideways, clip me in the side of the head and result in eradication.

Who will deal with the mail then? Huh?

Beef Cook-Off Rules

HARRISBURG — Stored in your recipe box could be the winning recipe in this year's expanded Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off — Expanded to include not only a conventional category, but a microwave category and a charcoal barbecue grill category as well. You could be the winner of $500 in cash prize money plus an all expense-paid trip to the National Beef Cook-Off.

"The search is on for new and exciting recipes that feature modern, lean beef," says Paul Heffner, Pennsylvania Beef Council Chairman. "Consumers are always looking for new recipe ideas that are easy to prepare, taste great and offer a variety in their menus." Heffner goes on to say, "That's the primary reason for offering an expanded Cook-Off field this year, to show that beef can be prepared in a variety of ways that are easy and tasty."

This year's State Beef Cook-Off will be held in May instead of in June, as it has been in the past. All recipes must be postmarked no later than Monday, April 18, 1988.

Recipes submitted must contain all ingredients, including garnishes if applicable; a minimum of one pound of beef and not more than five pounds of beef (excluding organ meats such as heart, liver, kidney, etc.); one serving must contain at least three ounces of beef; no other types of meat may be included in the recipe. Also to be included are the number of servings as well as an approximate time for preparation, which is not to exceed 4 hours but will not include preliminary preparation such as marinating.

Judging will be done by persons who are prominent in the field of food service. The decision made by the judges will be final and will be based on a point system that will follow the following criteria: taste - 40 points; ease of preparation and practicality - 30 points; originality - 20 points; appearance - 10 points.

Contestants must be 18 years of age or older, with a non-professional food status. Ineligible are persons who have owned one or more beef or dairy cattle (or who have lived in a household where any person has owned cattle) in the past 12 months preceding October 1, 1988; employees of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and members of their immediate families; and first place winners from the past three years of the Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off (this includes 1985 to 1987).

Messiah College will be the site of the 1988 Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off. The college is located 10 miles southwest of Harrisburg, just off Route 15. The conventional and microwave competitions will be held in the Foods Lab of the school, with the charcoal barbecue grill competition being held on the parking lot of the Old Main building.

The Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and Moyer Packing Company.

Contestants wishing to enter the Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off should send a typed copy of their recipe, including such information as correct category and number of servings, along with name, address and telephone number to: Pennsylvania Beef Council, 4714 Orchard Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17109.

For additional information call 717-545-6000.

GIVING & SHARING

Positions had been taken, angry comments volleyed back and forth, the din of the battleground was becoming unbearable as I attempted to wave the white flag of truce over two four-year-olds. Unarmed and without a bullet-proof vest I was responsible for a peaceful negotiation over one gift that had been given. Sharing was the issue at hand. Unfortunately, the easiest time to teach the concept of sharing is not during the heat of a battle.

Sharing means to use, divide or enjoy with others and may include all of one's resources, such as time, creativity, money or material possessions. Sharing is a learned skill, not one we are born with. Children may be seven or eight-years-old before they emotionally understand sharing. While learning to share may be taught through hands-on opportunities such as the battleground mentioned previously, you can approach sharing by another angle. Why not teach sharing through initiating sharing opportunities. Here are some options for the preschooler.

Young children often greet parents and grandparents or other guests with the question, "What did you bring me?" Instead of a give and take atmosphere, create a giving/sharing opportunity. Have your child prepare an unexpected surprise, such as a welcoming song or rhyme for the guest's or returnee's arrival. You may help your youngster anticipate and prepare for sharing when you collect pretty shells at the beach or press and mount flowers to produce creative tokens.

Include your preschooler in selecting ways to recognize family events. Your preschooler will probably get more delight from giving a personally selected gift, however simple, than from giving a costly one that you selected and wrapped in his or her name.

You may also teach sharing through the use of a small allowance. With an allowance, suggest that a child spend an amount for a treat to share with other family members. You may also encourage sharing possessions that are not equated with money. This may be picking some flowers for a friend, taking garden produce to an apartment dweller, offering crayons and books to a playmate or giving a personal drawing to friends or relatives.

Most importantly remember to praise and show approval when your preschooler shares possessions with others and accept graciously when he or she offers to share with you. These are simple ways to encourage repeat behavior.

Sharing at any age can be self-enriching. Often, the person who performs a thoughtful service by sharing at the right time gets as much pleasure from it as the receiver.

There probably will always be the battleground situations where sharing is the unwanted solution and a difficult lesson to learn. However, by seeking opportunities to share in a non-threatening environment, this skill may be attained a little easier.

And let's not forget to be an example ourselves. So, why not get started. If you found this article helpful or a new insight to an old problem, clip it and share it with a friend!

Kids Aren't The Only Ones Who Enjoy 4-H

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

BIGLERVILLE — Donna Rometa is one of those people who used to think that 4-H was only for farm kids with animals. After seven years as a 4-H leader in Adams County, she knows that 4-H is for everyone, and the number of projects is endless. As a salute to Pennsylvania 4-H Week, Donna reflects on the advantages she has found being involved with 4-H.

Donna grew up in Pittsburg and moved to Adams County with her parents when she was 15. It was not until she was in her 20's and able "to foot the bill for myself," that she got interested in show horses. Perhaps that set the stage, for she now is leader for the Gettysburg Horse Club, and thoroughly enjoys the opportunities she has found in 4-H.

Adams County 4-H leader Donna Rometa looks over some of the project books she offers to members of her Gettysburg Horse Club. A leader for seven years, Donna has enjoyed putting her school teaching background to work with the 4-H members.

Donna says, "People have a lot of misconceptions about 4-H. One is that you need a horse to join a horse club. I have picked up a lot of kids without horses." Of course, there is a project book for those without horses, and when they have their annual gymkhana, Donna tries to have it at stables where the youngsters can rent a horse, so everyone has one.

Having your own animal, however, is a learning experience for any child. "The key thing is responsibility. Members learn that horses don't have hands to care for themselves, to brush themselves, to get food or to close the gate behind them. The child has to know how to do these things."

She adds, "There is also the patience thing. The member must do a lot of training and learn to understand the mentality of the horse. They really learn patience."

Just this year, Donna had the experience of having someone donate a registered quarterhorse to a member of the club who didn't own a horse.

While she admits that she has just two or three of her 25 members who take advantage of the total 4-H program, Donna says they are the ones who also serve as teen leaders. She says, "They are not afraid to stand up and take some responsibility. They can speak easily at a meeting."

Though a relative newcomer to the 4-H concept, Donna quickly became deeply involved as a leader, and has attended workshops in both Washington, D.C.., and in Maine. She credits both of these with helping her learn more about the Extension service and 4-H. "There are many different opportunities to get out and around. I've learned so much about the different clubs and gained insight into Extension."

Another opportunity that Donna participated in was the Adams County 4-H trip to Ireland. Donna was one of three chaperones who traveled with nine 4-H'ers to County Limerick for three weeks. They stayed on farms in bed and breakfast establishments, and learned to know the people as well as the area.

"It was a close little group and I am so glad I went," she reflects. "It was like going back in time; it was so pleasant." The two weeks in the home before a week of travel helped prepare the 4-H'ers in a leisurely way to understand the language, the money and the lifestyle of the Irish people. Their days were filled with excursions on bicycles, canoeing, archery, swimming and other delights. Donna said, "The people were so kind and hospitable. We got to see their real lifestyle, not just what the tourists see."

Donna laughs when she reflects that everything she does seems to be involved with children or animals. "They say God gave everyone a talent, and mine seems to be with animals and kids." Her career started as a health and physical education teacher in Bloomsburg, but after two years she returned to her home in Biglerville. It was not long afterwards that a friend persuaded her to take a dog grooming course in California to help with her dog grooming business.

Nine years ago, Donna opened her own business, "Bow Wow Barber," and it has flourished since then. Although she started with cats, she gave up cats and concentrates only on grooming dogs. "Our claim to fame is that we use no tranquilizers. In nine years we only turned away three dogs because we couldn't handle them."

Donna credits her mother's help for the ease with which she grooms dogs. "Having another set of hands makes all the difference. She talks to them and rubs them and holds on tight if she must. It helps me to get them in and out faster, and it is not as traumatic for them."

She has 475 clients who bring their dogs on a regular basis, every 6-8 weeks. They travel from Westminster, Maryland, Mt. Holly and other nearby towns for her special treatment. On a normal day, Donna grooms between 10 and 15 dogs, though about two weeks before Christmas, she may do up to 20 a day. "That's why we take a vacation in January," she quipped.

Because of her interest in dogs, Donna was a leader for the pet care project for two years before moving on to horses. At that time, she took her own wire cages to 4-H round-up so the members could safely take their animals and display them.

Having her own business makes it ideal for her to schedule time for 4-H. She says, "I keep my 4-H schedule in the same appointment book I use for dogs. You have to keep yourself organized."

As a horse leader, she said she tries to see the children twice a month, once at a regular meeting, and then at a related activity. "We do clinics, and bring in speakers to cover everyone's area of interest," Donna says. "Program-wise, we've offered a lot. The availability of the county van helps us go a lot of places, too."

All children need is a love of the animal. We do arts and crafts related to horses, and leather work, and anything related."

Donna grooms her own dog in her facilities outside of Biglerville. The spacious workroom allows her to comfortably groom 10-15 dogs a day in her busy season.

Microwaves Have Changed The Way We Cook

UNIVERSITY PARK — In 1980, only 20 percent of American households owned microwave ovens. Today, more than half of us own them. "As more and more women are entering the work force, the convenience of microwave cooking appeals to busy consumers who have less time to spend in the kitchen," says Penn State nutritionist Lynne Brown.

In a recent survey of microwave users, consumers indicated that the three most popular uses of microwaves are to prepare beverages, to heat packaged frozen vegetables and potatoes, and to prepare snacks such as popcorn. Microwave ovens were used most often at dinner, followed by lunch, snacks, and breakfast.

"These consumer preferences are influencing the food products on the market," says Brown. "Now, most microwave foods are designed to be used in either the microwave or the traditional oven. But we're going to see more and more new foods designed exclusively for the microwave oven.

These new products will reflect the characteristics of microwave heating, which relies on molecular vibration of water molecules for heat radiation and distribution. Because water is heated to steam inside the food and then evaporates, browning and crisping is decreased in microwave cooking. Heating rates depend on a number of factors, such as ingredients, product shape, and package material. Runaway heating, when certain food components heat to a higher temperature than neighboring components, must be controlled. For example, fat usually heats faster than water in a microwave. "All these factors must be taken into account when formulating a food for the microwave market," says Brown.

One new microwave product available is a line of fully cooked, browned, and breaded chicken nuggets. The nuggets are of uniform size and shape, to insure even penetration of the microwaves. The breading was designed to withstand the high moisture level that results from released steam. And the top of package folds back while cooking so the steam is vented, and a heater board containing metal components is included in the package to produce browning and crisping.

Other new products are prebaked or precooked for the desired flavor and texture. Consumers can buy pork chops, breast of chicken, and fillet of catfish that have already been browned and grilled, then simply heat the foods in the microwave.

And how about a microwave sundae? After heating, we have a cold scoop of ice cream surrounded by warm topping. "this is possible," explains Brown, "because microwaves are easily absorbed by unfrozen water in the topping, which heats the topping, but they pass through the ice crystals in the ice cream so it stays cold."

Quads Run In This Family

BY KATHRYN I. SHREINER
Correspondent

Tim and Penny Grube of Elm are the owners of a herd of goats. Along with goats comes the birth of baby goats and the Grubes were pleasantly surprised in the last week of January when their doe delivered a set of quadruplet kids. This was Grubes' first experience with four kids. The doe delivered three bucks and one doe. This was her second kidding.

Two weeks later, Tim assisted an expectant doe deliver another set of quads. This was her third kidding and she delivered two does and two buck kids. This particular doe was a quad when she was born.

The goat operation was named Ziengfeld by Tim's dad, J. Harold Grube. According to Harold, Ziengfeld is a German word which means goatfield. Appropriately named, as their herd presently numbers 45 does and three billy goats, representing the following breeds: Nubian, Toggenburg, Alpine, LaManche and Sannen.

Tim added that his love of goats goes back to his childhood on the same farm where their goats are housed. His dad always had one or two goats running around, he said.

Penny added that her love of animals came with the wedding band and wedding vows.

The younger Grubes started with a pair of pygmy goats and have one remaining angora pygmy goat which is used for stud service.

Grube's at first purchased eleven goats and the number grew to the present herd. Barn work takes a good two hours in the morning and two hours again in the evening. Presently they are milking nine does.

The milk is fed to the kids. Two-year-old Amanda (almost age three) runs freely among the herd and is learning how to milk. Her mother added when Mandy gets a few squirts of milk into the pail she is so excited. Mandy holds the nursing bottles and helps to feed the babies. She also helps dry off newborn baby goats and proudly helps her parents vaccinate the goats.

Penny and daughter Mandy do the morning barn chores and check on the animals throughout the day. Husband Tim helps with evening chores. Tim added the goats eat over a ton of hay per week, but are running in pasture during the summer months.

The Grubes show their goats. At the Elizabethtown Fair in 1986 and 1987 they won trophies and many ribbons. They also won the coveted grand champion and reserve grand champion titles.

At the present they are preparing their choice does and buck for an upcoming show which will be held at the Harrisburg Farm Show building in August.

Penny Grube finds that quads are more than an armful.

Country Crafts By Sue

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LITITZ — Sue Miller is one busy person. As the wife of Gary Miller and the mother of three sons, Stephen, 9; Trevor, 6; and Mark, 2; her days are filled with mothering and being a cub scout leader, school room voluteer, and room mother. Her nights brim with teaching craft classes, making crafts for her business, and holding craft parties.

Sue shrugs off any questions about her seemingly boundless energy by saying, "I work well under extreme pressure."

Working under pressure means doing things such as making 100 wreaths in two weeks or staying up all night to complete a project she is teaching the following day. That might not be so difficult if craft making was Sue's full-time job, but she declares, "My children are my first priority." That means she often needs to reserve her craft making to early morning or late night hours when the children are sleeping. Sue explains, "I guess I just learned to do a whole lot in a hurry. When you're used to being busy, it's hard not to keep moving."

Sue keeps moving not only by weaving baskets, but with wreath making, herb growing, dried flower arrangements, and numerous other country crafts specializing in wooden projects and game boards.

The Miller's Colonial-style home in Lititz is filled with Sue's creative touches. "I'll always be country even if no one else is," Sue reasons, "because that's the type of person I am."

Part of being country means "never having too many baskets or wreaths." As Sue displayed baskets in varied sizes and styles, she commented that "baskets are not a fad or trend. They'll always be in style."

The popularity of her basket classes confirms her belief. Although she has been teaching them several times a year at extension classes, high school adult classes, and to church and other special-interest groups, her classes continue to fill. "It's amazing the special interest people have in crafts," she said, "especially this area, which is so conducive to country decoration."

Sue earned a degree in elementary education and in sociology. Now she intertwines both in her teaching methods. Her training and five years of experience in elementary education taught her patience and teaching skills. Her sociology training surfaces with her acute interest in the different learning styles that her students portray during her teaching sessions. "You can always spot a right-brained person from a left brained one," she said. Sue is referring to the theory that purports that people exhibiting logic and analytical skills have a left-brain dominance. They prefer to do things in an orderly, logical progression with detailed written instructions.

Basket lovers enjoy adding unique baskets to their collections. In addition to large baskets, Sue weaves berry, heart, egg, melon, and onion baskets.

Those exhibiting right-brain dominance, have higher creativity and visualization skills. They attempt projects by intuition or by visualizing the completed project rather than by taking the time to read directions.

Sue admits to being a right-brained person who has trained herself to read directions and become more logical in her approach. Sue stresses that both types of individuals can learn to do crafts well, but they go about their projects in different manners.

Differences in the two types of individuals are especially evident when Sue instructs students to cut reed the prescribed length, which

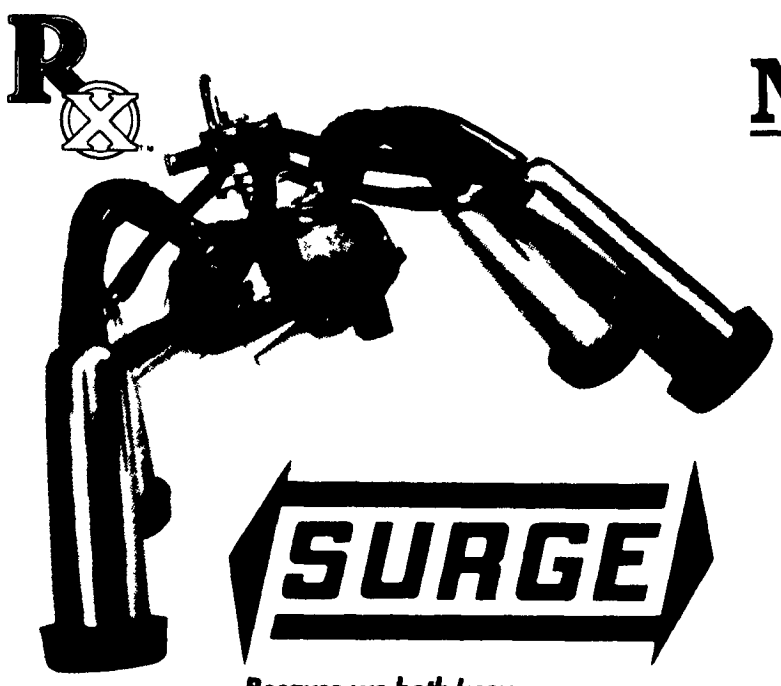
Whether it's for decorating or use, large baskets appeal to all.

You wouldn't sacrifice good milking to end cross-contamination.



Because we both know that good enough isn't enough.

NEITHER WOULD WE!

Sure, cross-contamination is a problem. But you're not about to give up milking efficiency just to end it.

We knew that. So when we set out to design a milker that would lower cross-contamination, we refused to compromise good milking procedures.

Our stubbornness paid off. And the result is our new Surge Rx™ milker — a true four-chamber milker. With four separate chambers and four separate milk hoses that totally isolate and transport each quarter's milk.

Without sacrificing air flow, milk flow, vacuum stability, or visibility. Without sacrificing efficiency.

Talk to your independent Surge dealer about a demonstration, right on your own dairy.

In today's economy you can't afford to compromise. And now, thanks to our Rx, you don't have to.

she demonstrates by holding her hands. Left-brained people are appalled. They want the exact number of inches. Sue estimates 6-inches and when measured, she predictably finds she has automatically chosen the right length.

During beginning classes, some students get frustrated trying to coordinate their hands with the necessary steps needed to complete a project. They complain that they can't do it. That they'll never learn. Sue's flamboyant approach eggs them on "Come on," she encourages. "You can do it." And with jokes and laughter she humors them out of their grumbling.

Many of her students return for further advanced classes. "I must be doing something right," Sue admits, "they keep coming back because they enjoy it."

Sue's enthusiasm for crafts has caused her father-in-law to lend his woodmaking expertise to her business. He cuts the wooden projects and she paints them. Sue's especially proud of a game that they designed. It's a watermelon-shaped board that opens up to form an oval checker board. Both are intrigued with wooden gameboards that serve the dual purpose of decoration and entertainment.

Sue finds it difficult to find anything she does not enjoy doing. "I'd love to do everything if I had time," she said. "But much as I try, I can't do everything."

Workshops by Sue

Some of the workshops that Sue is currently teaching through the Lancaster extension office include:

Basket Workshop — As you finish the class project each week, you will be learning a different technique in basketweaving. Class projects include a split weave basket, berry basket with a woven bottom, heart basket, egg or melon basket and an onion basket. One class period will be devoted to learning the different methods used to dye natural reed. April 7, 21, 28, May 5, 12 and 19 at 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Cost: $20.

Country Craft Sampler Workshop - Workshops provides the opportunity to complete six different craft projects to accent your home or give as gifts: a market basket, bushel basket lid, a spice or eucaluptus wreath, a wooden folk art project; and two projects to welcome spring. April 5, 12, 19, May 3, 10 and 17 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Cost: $20.

Jeremiah Basket Workshop — Make an old-fashioned sturdy and dependable basket with some unique touches that set it apart. The basket has a 10x10-inch base with a 14-inch high handle. It includes flat oval and round reed with an oak handle. Weaving experience necessary. April 14 and 21 from 7:00 to 9:30. Cost: $9 plus supplies.

Market Basket Workshop — Weave an old-time favorite in just three class sessions. Measures 10x20x14-inches. Some weaving experience required. April 28, May 5 and 12 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. or April 20, 27 and May 11 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Cost: $10 plus supplies.

"One can never have too many stools throughout the house," Sue Miller said.

Sue's Country Craft Sampler classes have widespread appeal for those who love the warmth of country decorating.

Wreath making continues to be a popular class. "They're so versatile," Sue said, "you can change the decorations to match the seasons."

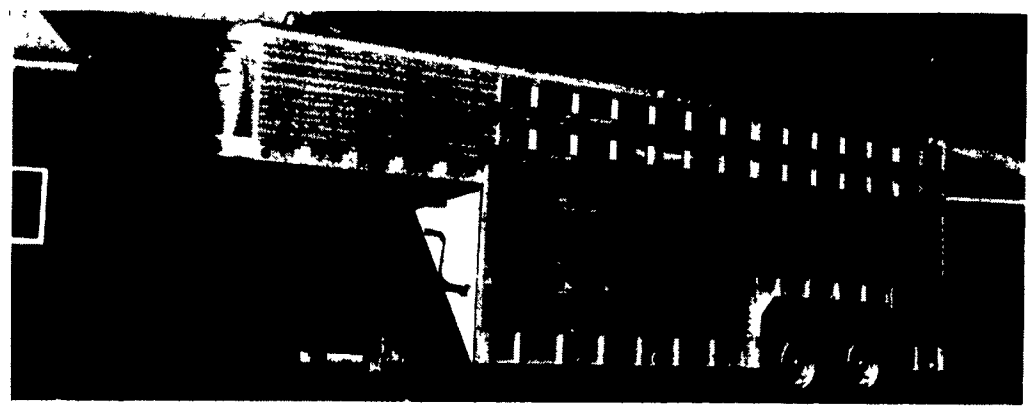
ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS



20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE - Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

You need a truck body and hoist that work as hard as you.

Your favorite truck dealer and the local Omaha Standard distributor can help with the work. Omaha Standard's name on a truck body plus hoist means good looking, rugged equipment that doesn't wear out. You'll need to replace the truck before you'll need to replace the Omaha Standard body or hoist. That's quality working for you, year after year. When it's time to purchase a combination grain and livestock body, a stakeless steel grain body, all aluminum grain body, a scissor or stabilized Olympic telescopic hoist, Omaha Standard has the right equipment for the job, the load and the road. It's a fact — your Omaha Standard distributor is the single source for truck bodies and hoists.

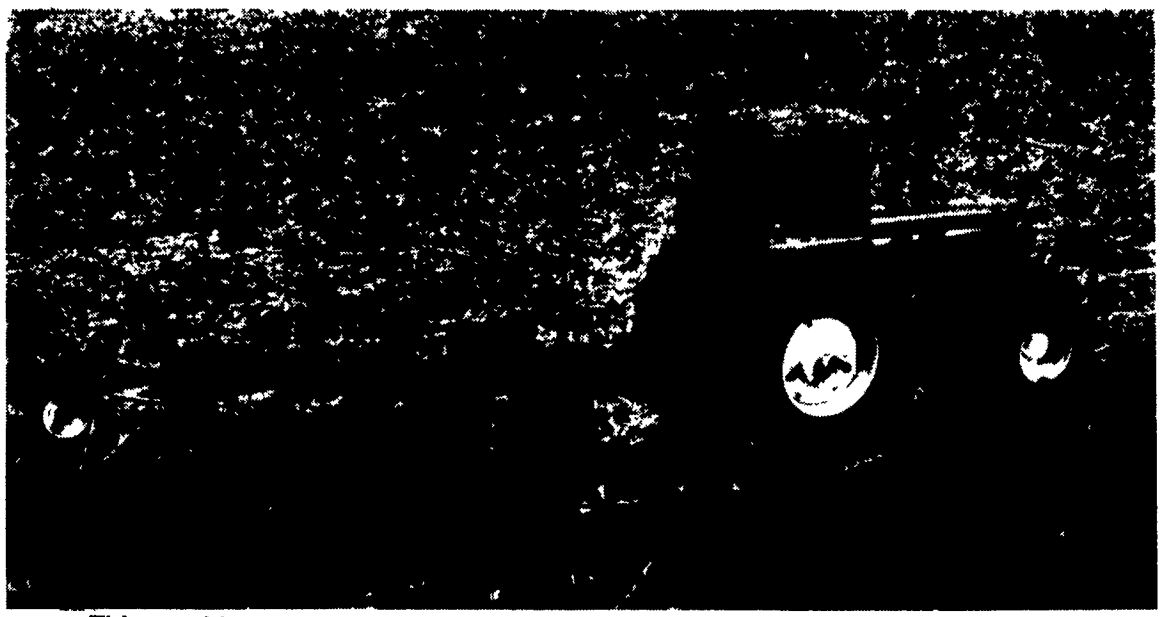
Designers of Quality Systems for Poultry, Swine and Grain Handling



This semi-integral moldboard plow is designed for tractors up to 150 horsepower and for light to medium residue. Conservation plowing is possible with bottoms designed for light-draft and high-speed plowing. Plow is available 4, 5 or 6-furrow size and width-of-cut can be adjusted for 14, 16 or 18 inches to match plow to tractor horsepower and soil conditions.

Deere Introduces Three Moldboard Plow Series

MOLINE, IL — John Deere has introduced three moldboard plow series: a new 2000 semi-integral moldboard plow for tractors up to 150 PTO hp, the 2810 semi-integral moldboard plow (replacing the 2700 and 2800 series) for tractors up to 235 PTO hp, and the 3710 drawn rigid or flex moldboard plows (replacing the 3600 and 3700 series) for tractors with at least 150 PTO hp (rigid) or 235 PTO hp (flex).

The new 2000 semi-integral moldboard plow is designed for light to medium residue (corn up to 125 bu./acre) and for tractors with category 2 or 3N hitches.

The 2000 plow is available in 4, 5, or 6-bottoms with in-furrow hitch. Light draft NU (new universal) bottoms allow conservation plowing. NU bottoms also give increased fuel economy and productivity.

Width-of-cut adjusts manually to 14, 16, or 18 inches to match tractor horsepower and soil conditions.

Standards, mounted to a 6" x 6" mainframe, are available in safety-trip or single-pivot spring-reset. Safety-trip standards require no backing to reset. Single-pivot, spring-reset standards automatically return the standard when tripped and feature automatic, on-the-go reset. Both standards are factory set for approximately 4500 pounds trip force.

Standards are mounted to the frame to minimize plugging. The standard mounting design, coupled with 28½ inches underframe clearance and 29½ inches fore-and-aft clearance, provides an excellent residue tunnel for smooth trash flow.

Hydraulic steering rephases automatically during a full left turn. This system gives positive control including backing, parking, or transport.

The 2000 has high transport clearance and good trailing characteristics for safe transport.

The 2810 semi-integral moldboard plow combines the features of the earlier 2700 and 2800. Designed for tractors with category 2, 3 or 3N hitches, the 2810 is suited for high-yielding, high-residue crops.

Either heavy-duty safety-trip or spring-reset standards are available on an 8" x 8" mainframe. Clearance of 33½ inches underframe and 34 inches fore-and-aft allow smooth trash flow.

The 2810 is available in 4, 5 and 6-furrow size with in-furrow hitch and 6, 7 and 8-furrow size with on-land hitch. Bottoms are designed for light draft and high speed plowing.

Width-of-cut is adjusted from 14 to 22 inches with turnbuckle or hydraulic cylinder. Hydraulic operation allows on-the-go adjustment for narrowing width-of-cut in irregular shaped fields, plowing on slopes and for narrowing the plow for transport.

Hydraulic steering with automatic rephasing provides positive control when plowing, parking, or transporting.

The 3710 drawn moldboard plows, replacing the 3600 and 3700 plows, are designed for high-yielding, high-residue crops.

The 8" x 8" frame maintains exact width-of-cut and ensures consistent plowing depth.

Light draft bottoms provide improved fuel economy and productivity through high-speed plowing with a 33½ inch underframe clearance and a 34 inch fore-and-aft clearance.

Heavy-duty safety trip or spring-reset standards are available with redesigned mountings that eliminate cap screws.

The 3710 rigid width-of-cut is set from 14 to 22 inches with choice of turnbuckle or hydraulic adjust-to-cut feature and is available in 5, 6, 7, and 8-furrow sizes with in-furrow or on-land hitch.

The 3710 rigid, designed for tractors of 150 PTO hp and up, features a castering tail wheel with mechanical lockout for flat and/or hilly, rolling land, better transport clearance than previous models and has 30 percent more residue handling ability than the 3600.

The 3710 drawn flex moldboard plow features a flex joint in the middle of its mainframe to follow ground contour on rolling land.

Designed for tractors with at least 235 PTO hp, the flex uses two turnbuckles to adjust width-of-cut to 16, 18, or 20-inch to match plow to tractor horsepower and soil conditions and is available in 9, 10 and 12-furrow sizes with on-land hitch.

The 3710 flex's walk-over land wheel equalizes the load on each wheel, in the field or during transport, and minimizes bulldozing in softer soils. A jack-stand assists the movement of land wheels to the transport or working positions.

The new John Deere plows will be available this spring.

Case IH Expands Line

Featuring a variable-chamber design, this round baler has an automatic bale ejector and an audible bale-full alarm.

RACINE, Wisc. — Case IH has significantly expanded its hay and forage product offerings as a result of a joint manufacturing venture with Hesston Corporation of Hesston, Kansas.

"This joint manufacturing venture offers us an excellent opportunity to broaden our product line and improve our product distribution in the very important hay and forage market," according to John S. Gleason, Case IH vice president, sales and marketing, North America. "Hesston has a reputation for high-quality, innovative hay and forage products, and Case IH will now be able to market these reputable products under the Case IH name."

Under the terms of the agreement, the two companies will equally share the ownership and estimated $40-million initial investment required for the new venture. Case IH and Hesston will separately market the equipment manufactured by the venture under their own brand names, colors and through their own distribution systems.

The Case IH hay and forage product line now incorporates 19 new models that expand and complement its existing product offerings in mower conditioners, large round balers, rectangular balers, self-propelled windrowers, and forage harvesters.

Case IH now offers five new models of mower conditioners. Among them are the Model 8350, which combines a 12-foot (3.7 m) cutting width with an economical side-pull design, and a 16-foot-cut (4.9 m) Model 8380, which represents a new size category for Case IH.

Other new mower conditioners include the Model 8320, a 7-foot, 3-inch-cut (2.2 m), side-pull model; the model 8330, a 9-foot, 3-inch-cut (2.8 m) side-pull model; and the Model 8370, a 14-foot-cut, (4.3 m) center-pivot model.

The 9-foot-3-inch-cut, 12-foot-cut, 14-foot-cut and 16-foot-cut models all feature 110-inch-long (2.8 m) conditioning rolls to provide thorough conditioning for fast drying. The intermeshing, rubber-on-steel conditioning rolls aggressively condition stems while gently handling the valuable leaves.

Case IH also is expanding its large round baler product offerings to include four new models featuring the popular variable-chamber design.

Among the new round balers is the Model 8460 that produces 61.5-inch by 75-inch (1.6 m by 1.9 m) bales. The Model 8460 offers open-throat design, slipclutch-protected drives and an audible bale-full alarm. This model also has an automatic bale ejector, automatic tailgate raising and lowering with manual override and automatic tying that engages when the preset bale size is reached.

Other large round balers now available from Case IH also feature the direct-feed, open-throat design that makes starting a bale easier. These models include the 39-inch by 54-inch (1 m by 1.4 m) Model 8420; the 60-inch by 60-inch (1.5 m by 1.5 m) Model 8440; and the 46.5-inch by 75-inch (1.2 m by 1.9 m) Model 8450.

The bale sizes listed above for these variable-chamber balers are maximum diameters.

An expanded rectangular baler line features four new models with an exclusive center-line design, enabling the hay to travel a straight path through the baler.

The Model 8550 makes 16-inch by 18-inch (406 mm by 457 mm) bales. This new-size baler for Case IH meets the high-capacity, heavy-duty baling needs of commercial hay growers.

Another addition to the Case IH baler line is the Model 8580 that can produce bales weighing up to one ton (.91 metric tons). These 4-foot by 4-foot by 6-foot to 9-foot (1.2 m by 1.2 m by 1.8 m to 2.4 m) bales are sized and shaped to make commercial hay handling, storage and shipping fast and efficient. Additionally, the baler is designed to produce bales that come apart in flakes to provide high-quality, easy-to-feed hay.

Two new self-propelled hay windrowers offer headers with the same modern design features found on pull-type mower conditioners from the joint manufacturing venture. These windrowers incorporate 110-inch-wide (2.8 m) intermeshing rubber-on-steel conditioner rolls that condition stems while being gentle to leaves.

WINTERTIME PROBLEMS

The year 'round problems of water damage and carbonizing of the fuel injection system become more acute during the cold winter season. And, diesel engines now become exposed to another wintertime problem: Waxing and Gelling. Diesel fuel contains paraffin wax which develops into crystals as the temperature drops. When crystals begin to form, the temperature is at "cloud point." The pour point of the fuel is the temperature at which the crystals have now formed into a lattice-type pattern, restricting fuel flow This is waxing and gelling, and it clogs filters and blocks fuel lines

POLAR POWER - THE ULTIMATE WINTERTIME TREATMENT

• POLAR POWER combines the advantages of FUEL POWER and FLOW IMPROVER by preventing water damage, the growth of algae, and the carbonizing of injection system AND by preventing waxing and gelling — giving you the ultimate wintertime product

Drill soybeans with a 5100 Soybean Special and you can expect yields up to 25% higher than with conventional row-planting methods. Here's what you get with the 5100:

- Outstanding seeding accuracy. Famous Case International feed cups deliver seed smoothly and positively at a uniform rate.
- Solid seeding. Accurate depth control in row spacings as close as 6"...while some other drills provide depth control only in 10" or 12" spacings.
- Fast emergence. Case International dual-rib press wheels compact the soil around the seed, and gently "firm" the top to prevent air pockets. Result: Quick germination and emergence...a fast start toward high yields.

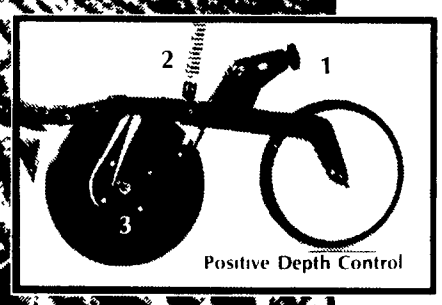
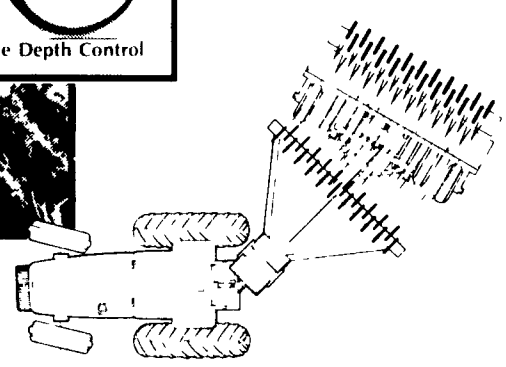
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS



Great Plains Solid Stand® drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need; (1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release.



SPECIAL PRICE
On 12 Ft. Rental Drill

THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

COMPARE PERFORMANCE! COMPARE PRICE!

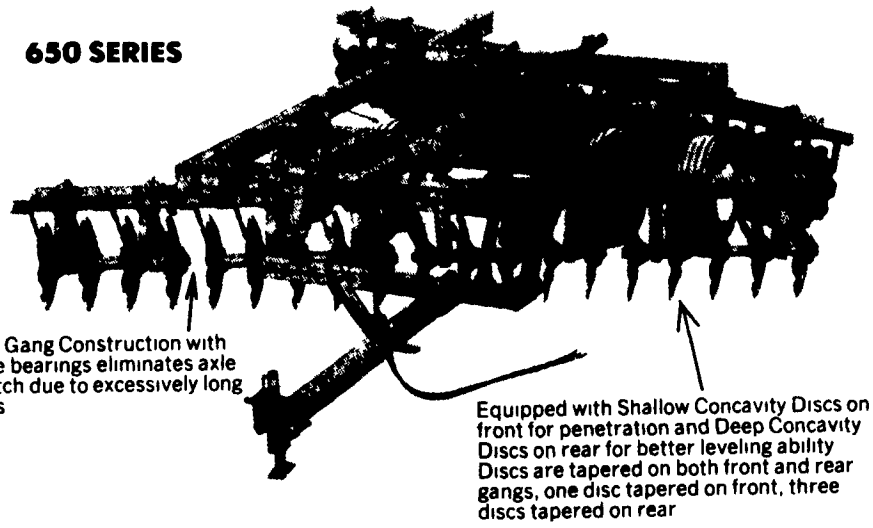
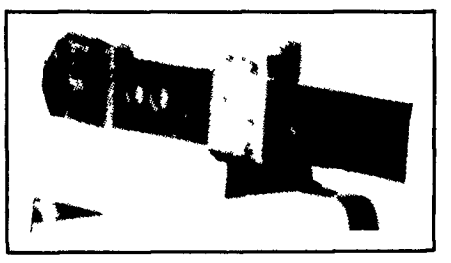
HEAVY-DUTY LEVELING OFFSET HARROWS

650 SERIES



Split Gang Construction with more bearings eliminates axle stretch due to excessively long axles

Equipped with Shallow Concavity Discs on front for penetration and Deep Concavity Discs on rear for better leveling ability Discs are tapered on both front and rear gangs, one disc tapered on front, three discs tapered on rear



Adjustable depth control holds the cutting depth constant Then simply lock bar for transport to eliminate wear and tear on hydraulic transport cylinders on those rough and rocky roads

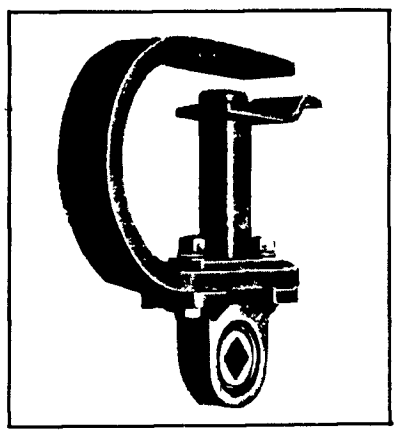
Positive adjustment leveling from front to rear is no problem Weight is shifted by these Spring Rods to produce a smooth finish

OUR OFFSET LEVELS LIKE A TANDEM

- Wide Range of Adjustments
- Tapered Discs
- Disc Concavity
- Spring Leveling Rods

RESULT...

Furrows And Ridging In The Center Is Virtually Eliminated.
A Tandem That Cuts Like An Offset Leaves A Furrow.



FLEXIBILITY

Spring Bearing Hangers
With Built-In Limiters
Absorb Shocks But Don't
Flex So Far That They Break!

PRECISION ENGINEERED... FULLY FIELD TESTED!

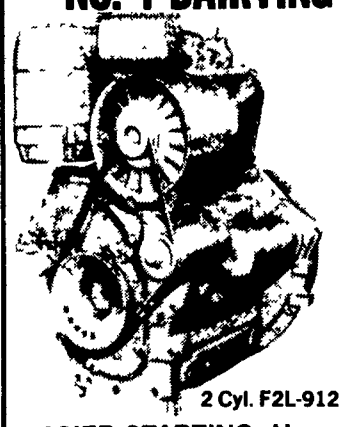
NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL



2 Cyl. F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

PLUS-FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY

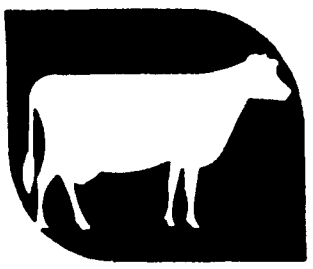
PRO-4 SANITIZING TEAT DIP



Don't kid yourself . . . killing GERMS is only part of the mastitis prevention program!! The answer is PRO-4 Teat Dip.

Approved By National Mastitis Council Protocol "A", "B", and "C"

Pro-4 formulation recognizes that killing germs is only half the battle in mastitis control. Maintaining good healthy teat tissue is the other half of the battle that must be won to reduce mastitis. The multiple conditioning action on the teat skin of Pro-4 is superior to any teat dip on the market today. Pro-4 Teat Dip has a record of 14 years of safe and effective use.

Increase Milk Production And Cut Feed Costs

BY PAT PURCELL

LANCASTER — Considering the present price of milk and the future of milk support prices, producing more milk may not be the way to a greater profit. What if, a dairyman could feed 50 percent less alfalfa and increase daily milk production per cow by 30 pounds?

In less than a minute farmers at Lancaster County Dairy Days learned how to increase milk production and cuts hundreds of dollars off feed costs and that was only part of the valuable program which also featured a panel discussion with four county farmers.

According to Tom Kichura, Nutritionist with F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc., cutting alfalfa in the pre-bloom stage is crucial to the dairyman's level of profitablity. When the farmer chooses to cut his hay directly affects his bottom line.

——On 20 percent pre-bloom alfalfa, cows produce 79 lbs./day while the same cows produce 52 lbs./day on full bloom.

——On 37 percent pre-bloom, cows produce 83 lbs/day while the same cows produce 55 lbs./day on full bloom.

——On 54 percent pre-bloom, cows produce 87 lbs./day while the same cows produce 65 lbs./day on full bloom.

——On 71 percent pre-bloom, cows produce 86 lbs./day while the same cows produce 70 lbs./day on full bloom.

A dairyman who is feeding almost 40 percent of matured hay can cut hay consumption in half and increase his milk production per day by more than 30 pounds by feeding pre-bloom alfalfa. These results have been repeated in many studies. However, not all dairy farmers are feeding full-bloom alfalfa and perhaps not all farmers have the genetically inclined milking cows to produce 80 pounds per day. But feeding alfalfa cut in the early stages will increase milk production daily. Every day of delayed harvest after pre-bloom stage results in a milk loss of 1 lb./cow/day. There is no substitute for quality forage and there is no miracle-product on the market that can turn matured forage into pre-bloom forage. The time to worry about the quality of forage is when it is cut. Preservatives only minimize loss of quality. They do not increase quality.

Increasing income over feed costs is the name of the game in the 1980's and those farmers who do not recognize the critical nature of timely harvesting will not be in the line-up in the future.

Area for improvement in forage quality begins at the cutting time. Preservatives can enable the farmer to cut his alfalfa at the optimum stage and prohibit loss of quality. Feed additives can offer some increased milk production, but it is minimal when compared to the enormous improvement potential of good quality forage.

As hay matures its level of indigestible fiber increases which decreases the amount of digestible nutrients available to the cow.

According to Kichura, temperature and light affects hay quality. The first cutting of hay in the spring should be good because there is more light from longer days and cool temperatures. But as temperature increases the quality of hay decreases so hay cut in June and July with hot temperatures is of poorer quality. As temperatures begin to drop as fall nears, the cooler temperatures will produce a much higher quality hay.

Kichura suggests that farmers have their forage tested for lignin, which is a non-digestible fiber and has a definite affect on the nutritive value of the forage. Not all forage labs test for this. Most labs test for ADF to determine the amount of available energy, but Kichura cautions, if the lab does not test for lignin, there could be some drastic effects on the feed program.

Milking Equipment And Mastitis

Mastitis can be caused by injury to the teat, cross contamination from quarters and by impact to the teat due to linear slippage or vacuum fluctuations.

According to Stephen Spencer, PSU Extension Dairy Specialist, impacts increase when there is a drop in the vaccuum level. A high speed vaccuum fluctuation has much greater potential to cause impact to the teat end. Putting on the teat cups or removal of the teat cups improperly results in massive changes to the vacumm level resulting in greater risk of impacts. Impacts force milk, along with bacteria through the teat canal and into the teat cistern.

To control impacts, Spencer has several recommendations.

——drying teats to decrease bacteria and to enable the teat cup to gain better contact with the teat.

——Care and attention should be given when applying and removing the teat cups.

——Vacuum level should always be kept up and should not be lowered for any reason.

——Regularly check and adjust the machine.

——Select low-slip teat cup liners.

Studies cited by Spencer showed that back flushing cuipment did not significantly reduce the number of new infections in their herd and found it also to be uneconomical.

Premium Milk

Premium milk is a desirable thing, because dairymen are paid better for it. If levels of PI, SPC, ADV and SCC are low, the milk is more valuable to handlers. According to Spencer, premiums are achievable for all farmers with some adjustments in their cleaning program.

The PI or preliminary incubation level is measured by the amount of bacteria which has grown in 18 hours with the milk kept at 55 degrees. A high level of this means that equipment, pipeline, equipment handler, cows are not clean. The dairyman should aim for a level of 10,000 to 30,000. He can lower his level by initiating and being consistent with a strict cleaning program. The pipeline should be washed twice a day and sanitized before each use.

The SPC level or standard plate count comes from a cow with clinical mastitis and is shedding a high plate count. One heavily infected cow can send the SPC level up for an entire tank. It can be lowerd by pre-dipping teats and following close sanitation practices.

The SCC level or somatic cell count is the cows's response to an udder infection. The goal is to aim for the lowest possible SCC, but Spencer said that it is unrealisitc to shoot for under 100,000. With a 5 to 7 percent portion of the herd infected the count will be around 200,000. There are herds in the state with a SCC of lower than 100,000.

The acid degree value (ADV) is the level of rancidity of milk and can be detected by its odor. A good balanced feed ration will assure the farmer of a low ADV value. Good animal health will also result in an improved ADV level.

Dairy Farmers On Farming

Dairy Extension Specialist Glenn Shirk invited several young farmers from the Lancaster County area for a panel discussion on today's farming operations. The panel members were asked to speak on a variety of subjects.

Donald R. Risser, Master Farmer, of Bainbridge, gave his father a lot of credit for allowing him to take responsibility, to do things differently and the freedom to to learn from his own mistakes. Risser suggested other farmers be open to letting family members learn by doing and gain some valuable experience.

Stephen L. Hershey, dairyman, Mount Joy, suggested that any one forming a partnership with family and entering into business get all arrangements and agreements in writing.

"Don't assume that anything is understood," said Hershey. Hershey does not raise any of his own crops. He buys his hay and has found that buying locally from farmers in his area was more beneficial to him than throwing away a whole day at the hay auction. Hay quality was more consistent and considering time and traveling saved, prices from local farmers proved to less expensive in the overall picture.

Gordon B. Hoover, dairyman, Gap, focused on the importance of stress management and communication on the farm.

"I think it is important to try to keep everything in perspective. Today's farming and lifestyles have changed from what they were 20 or 30 years ago. Everything is so much more fast paced and more intense so that the time we spend relaxing must be different, too."

"Health problems are more stress related and its more important than ever to be able to get away from it all for awhile. My wife and I take off a weekend a month," explained Hoover.

Risser agreed and said that he and his wife also take off a weekend a month no matter what.

"If we don't take off when it is our turn because the hay is ready or something else, we just won't get it," said Risser.

John A. Brubaker, Jr., Master Farmer, Christiana, compared farming today with a 45 record set on 78 and repeated the importance of relieving stress by getting away.

Brubaker also stressed the need for top quality forages and said it was much easier to manage a herd because they had less health problems and were off feed less and led to better financial management. He urged farmers to take some time to look at each of their cows and said that he has frequently noticed problems and was able to

Soil Erosion Impact Measured Incorrectly Costs U.S. Billions

BOSTON — Some agricultural experts are incorrectly measuring the impact of soil erosion, massively underestimating its impact on productivity, according to a Cornell University scientist. As a result, they mistakenly conclude that technologies designed to reduce erosion are not cost effective.

Soil erosion may reduce the productivity of land up to 30 percent annually in reduced crop yields, and the direct and indirect effects of erosion and associated water runoff cost the nation billions of dollars each year, David Pimentel, a professor of entomology and agricultural sciences at Cornell and an expert on the ecological effects of agricultural practices, told the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science here.

He said that many agricultural researchers incorrectly assess the impact of soil erosion by measuring only the depth of lost soil.

"If the intensity of soil erosion is measured as reduced soil depth, the annual impact on crop productivity ranges from only 0.1 to 0.5 percent annually," Pimentel said. "Such methods make soil conservation technologies designed to prevent erosion seem uneconomic."

Besides soil depth, the impact of soil erosion should include measurements of other factors vital to crop production, such as water loss by runoff, losses of plant nutrients (fertilizers) and reductions in organic matter, he said.

When all these factors are included in the measurements, the overall impact of moderate to severe erosion on productivity would range from 10 to 30 percent in reduced yields, he calculated, making most soil conservation practices cost effective.

Based on his study titled "World Agriculture and Soil Erosion," which was published in the April, 1987, issue of "BioScience," Pimentel estimated that soil erosion and associated water runoff cost the United States about $43.5 billion annually in direct and indirect effects. "The long-term environmental and social costs may be several times this level," he said in an interview. "Clearly, it pays to invest in soil and water conservation."

Pimentel pointed out that the United States has lost more than a third of its topsoil in just two centuries of farming in this country and is losing the soil at the rate of 18 tons a year per hectare (about 2.5 acres).

"However, because of the insidious nature of soil erosion and the complexity of environmental effects, few measurements have been made of the total costs of erosion and water runoff to farmers and society as a whole," he said.

Soil erosion also is a major international problem, he said, threatening world food production. He estimated that degradation of arable land worldwide will reduce food production by 15 to 30 percent during the period from 1975 to the year 2000.

The Cornell scientist said that soil erosion lowers productivity by reducing availability of water, fertilizers (nutrients) and organic matter. It also reduces rooting depths for crops. By removing organic matter and finer soil particles, the erosion also reduces the available water-holding capacity of soil, a factor vital for plant growth.

In addition, soil erosion and water runoff from agricultural land also contribute to the pollution of groundwater and surface water, he said, citing fertilizers and pesticides as common pollutants of water resources.

"The importance of reduced soil depth by erosion is that it is cumulative in time," Pimentel said.

correct before they became serious health problems.

Risser stressed the value of timeliness in all areas of the farming business.

"It takes just as much time to do something on time as what it does to do it late. Breed on time, harvest on time, correct health problems on time and pay on time. Make the effort to get every job done on time," said Risser.

Brubaker suggested farmers look into contract buying.

"I don't know about you, but I can barely grow corn for $2 per bushel, so this past year I bought corn and soybeans on forward contracting," said Brubaker.

Farmers agreed that the best to handle the numerous daily visitors to the farm was to refuse to see anyone who did not have an appointment.

"I'm trying to run a business and I appreciate an appointment. Otherwise it is a waste of my time and a waste of theirs, too," said Risser.

Hoover said the first thing he wants to see on any product is some research data or results before he even considers talking to anyone.

Tapping Into The Wool Fashion Industry

BY
GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

BOILING SPRINGS — The Cumberland Cooperative Sheep and Wool Growers were treated to a fun fashion show that was a highlight of their 55th Annual Meeting. The meeting was held recently in conjunction with a family-style banquet featuring roast lamb at the South Middleton Firehall. All those attending were producers who pooled wool with the Cooperative in 1987.

The program entitled, "Wool from Sheep to Wearable Art", was presented by Billie Andrews, Vesper Valley Farm, Spring Grove, Pa. Andrews presented an insight into fine wool production, processing, and the marketing of fine woolen fashions.

Andrews related that she was a city-girl who had always wanted to farm. While she found that all facets of the sheep industry were interesting, "We chose the wool breeds to get centered on one element of the industry and established a 15-year plan of objectives we wanted to achieve."

Andrews describes her 200-head flock of Lincolns, Romneys, and Corriedales as a commercial, production flock that needs to make enough money to pay the feed bills. Her first five-year goal has been met in that they have established a profitable flock of fine wool and natural-colored sheep.

Her second goal was to master the showring. They have had National Champions with a natural-colored Lincoln ewe and a natural-colored Corriedale ewe. Last year they showed the Supreme Champion, a natural-colored Corriedale ram, at the Maryland Wool Show.

Andrews explained that she is now pursuing the final phase of her long-range plan, tapping into the fashion industry. Stated Andrews, "In this country we sell our home-grown wool short. We have as good a wool here as anywhere in the world. What Vesper Valley is doing is showing the fashion industry what we can put out on the market, and we'll find out what sells and what doesn't."

To give the audience an appreciation for what sells, Andrews invited several breeders to model more than a dozen woolen fashions, each a unique design and created from her own farm processed wool. The show highlighted not only the different qualities of wool, dyed and natural coloreds, but also different knitting styles. Many of the sweater creations were original designs by local artisian Susal Hidinger, Shrewsbury.

(Turn to Page D9)

A fun fashion show was the highlight of the 55th Annual Meeting of the Cumberland Cooperative Sheep and Wool Growers. The show entitled, "Wool from Sheep to Wearable Art" featured original woolen creations. Several of the designs are shown here modeled by other sheep enthusiasts (l-r): Annie Lipe, York, Patricia Heubusch, Spring Grove, Susan Hidinger, also the designer of many of the fashions, Shrewsbury, and Bonnie Everett, New Freedom.

New Idea Introduces 900 Series Planters

COLDWATER, Ohio — White New Idea Farm Equipment Company now offers the 9000 Series, a new line of planters featuring accurate seed placement and a wide choice of designs.

The New Idea 9000 Series comes in three models, each available in 4, 6 and 8 rows. The model 9200 features a versatile single frame built with a 7"x7" box beam strong enough for optional fertilizer attachments and herbicide hoppers. The model 9300 II Plus features two 5"x7" box beam frames that can be equipped with additional row units for interplanting. The 9200 and 9300 models also have conservation planting capabilities. The model 9100 features a toolbar design with fast 3-pt. hitch category II and III mounting and easy maneuverability.

To allow precision planting, the 9000 Series Planters come with a choice of two plateless seed meters. For corn, a mechanical finger pickup meter singulates each seed for optimum field speeds. For soybeans, cup-type metering units gently regulate the seed flow to eliminate cracking and crushing.

Optional coulters, disk openers and cast-iron closing wheels are available with the 9000 Series Planters for conservation tillage. Dry and liquid fertilizer attachments are also available, as well as fiberglass hoppers for herbicide and insecticide application.

For more information on the new 9000 Series Planters or other New Idea farm equipment, visit your local New Idea dealership or call 1-800-543-9598. In Ohio, call collect 1-513-228-0103 and ask for Operator 299.

Andrews noted that she shears her sheep when the fleece reaches four inches in length, which for her is three shearings annually. The fleece is graded and put into different markets according to quality. Only the sides are considered tops and are marketed to hand spinners and designers locally and in the New York market.

Andrews makes every attempt to utilize materials right on the farm in her processing and creations. Dyes are created from blending golden rod and walnut found on the farm. Designer buttons are made from specially cut and polished walnut which is grown on the farm.

The next phase for their markets is to get into sheep skin production for jacket linings. Stated Andrews, "We're working on developing the crosses needed for this. Felting has some real market appeal and is selling well."

The climax of the show was a turquoise sweater with knitted puff sleeves and felted panels made from Corriedale skin. Andrews stated that this creation wholesales for $350.. at the farm, but in the boutiques of New York will retail for as much as $650 to $700.

A short business meeting followed the fashion show. Re-elected as directors were Steven Ebersole and Kenneth Staver. Re-elected to a two-year term as auditor was Mark Bucher. This year's wool pool will be held June 15th at the Carlisle Fairgrounds.

Billie Andrews, Vesper Valley Farm, Spring Grove, was the featured speaker at the 55th Annual Meeting of the Cumberland Cooperative Sheep and Wool Growers. Andrews narrated a fun fashion show featuring all wool fashions. She poses her with several samples of the processed wool from her flock of Lincolns, Romneys, and Corriedales. Her dyed Rolags and Batts sell for $12 per pound. The Rolags and Batts in natural colors command $10 per pound.

Thompson Voted New President Of Maryland Nurseryman's Association

The Maryland Nurseryman's Association, Inc. (MNA) held its annual meeting on January 11, and elected W. David Thompson of Street as its president for 1988. Thompson has served on the Board for six years, first as a director and subsequently as treasurer, second vice president, and first vice president. Active in numerous professional societies, Thompson currently serves as the president of the eastern region of the American Conifer Society. He also lectures frequently on ornamentals at professional and educational conferences.

As part of an industry that produces nearly $400,000,000 annually across the state, Thompson hopes to increase the public awareness of the MNA's efforts to monitor horticultural professionals in Maryland. One way in which Thompson hopes to achieve this is through his responsibility, as president of the MNA, of sitting on the University of Maryland's Horticulture Department advisory board. A second way to raise the standard of professional horticulturists is through a voluntary certification program, the Certified Professional Horticulturist (CPH), which the MNA has developed. This program has four primary objectives. They are:

1. To raise and improve the professional standards of nursery, landscape and garden center industries

2. To encourage and provide the education and training of new employees

3. To encourage and promote continuing education and training of all nursery, landscape and garden center employees, including owners and managers

3. To have these high standards recognized by the gardening public, as well as, within the nursery, landscape and garden center industry.

The certification program is a form of customer protection in that adherence to a strict code of ethics is required. The Certified Professional Horticulturist agrees not only to deal fairly and justly with any customers but also to condemn all practices which tend to discredit the nursery industry.

Thompson announced in the MNA's most recent newsletter that the Board of Directors is seeking a stronger relationship with its membership. Various workshops are planned with such possible topics as sales, production management and labor relations.

Thompson owns and operates Foxborough Nursery in Street, which is both a wholesale nursery and a landscape contracting business that specializes in dwarf and unusual conifers, broadleafs, and trees. Foxborough Nursery maintains 2,000 varieties of rare plants and produces more than 20,000 grafts and more than a half-million cuttings each year. The nursery supplies wholesale nurseries and landscape contractors in seven states and does a mail order business throughout the United States.

In 1975 Thompson received a Bachelor of Science degree in Ornamental Horticulture from the University of Maryland. He has been involved in the nursery and landscaping business since his high school years.

March Dairy Digest

CRYPTOSPORIDIA OR "CRYPTO"

Cryptosporidia are small protozoan parasites which inhabit the intestinal epithelium of youngstock, including calves. This parasite affects the lower small intestine of calves during the first weeks of life. Some of the symptoms affected calves might exhibit include dehydration, loss of appetite and unthriftiness, and scours which may contain mucus. A veterinarian should be consulted for diagnosis if the scouring is unresponsive to treatment. Cryptosporidia are related to coccidia but coccidiostat drugs are not very effective. The Cryptosporidia oocysts are shed in the manure. Wild animals, such as mice and birds, can also become infected by this parasite. These wild animals can easily spread Cryptosporidia to domestic livestock by contaminating feed and water. The parasite can also be spread within a herd by infected animals, which may not show any clinical symptoms, but are passing the oocysts in their manure.

To control Cryptosporidiosis, the best possible environmental health conditions should be maintained. Good sanitation is most important as well as isolating the youngstock immediately after birth. Protect feed and water from contamination by rodents. Immediate disposal of all infected animals is also suggested to prevent the oocysts from being passed to herdmates. Crypto can also affect humans, so observe good hygiene after caring for or feeding calves.

FEED ADDITIVES FOR DAIRY HEIFERS

Two feed additives which enhance growth and increase feed utilization are available and approved for dairy heifers. Rumensin (monensin sodium) is marketed by Eli Lilly and Bovatec (lasalocid sodium) is marketed by Hoffman-LaRoche. The active ingredient in these products are ionophores. Ionophores transport ions across biological membranes in certain rumen microorganisms. This causes water to infiltrate into the cells, which eventually causes them to rupture. This selective destruction of rumen microorganisms improves feed conversion efficiency and increases the rate of gain in the host animal. Research has shown that either one of these ionophores consistently alters the total amount of VFA's (volatile fatty acids) produced in the rumen and that there is an increase of propionic acid production and a decrease in the amount of acetic and butyric acids produced. Both compounds also decrease rumen methane production. The overall results indicate that Rumensin and Bovatec induce similar alterations in rumen fermentation and therefore similar results in improved heifer weight gains. Both products have been shown to reduce bloat in cattle by reducing rumen methane production. Rumensin has been shown to reduce feed intake in young (<400 lb) animals. No data concerning this effect is available for dairy heifers receiving Bovatec. Rumensin has been shown to reduce the age at which heifers reach puberty, independent of the weight gains. This is not documented for Bovatec. Neither product is approved for use in lactating dairy cows, and neither product has a withdrawal period. Rumensin is approved as a coccidiostat in goats, but not in cattle. Bovatec has been used for coddiciosis in sheep and is now approved for control of coccidiosis in cattle less than 800 pounds.

At present there are minor differences between Rumensin and Bovatec. Daily costs are similar for both products. Rumensin or Bovatec should only be considered for use in a replacement feeding program that includes a well-balanced ration. This requires forage testing and ration balancing for several age groups of heifers. Without a balanced ration, many feed additives cannot be utilized to their full potential.

Watch Costs In Dairy Feeding

BY RICHARD S. ADAMS
PSU Dairy Extension

UNIVERSITY PARK — Declines in operating margins due to lower milk prices and cost inflation increase the importance of cost control in feeding dairy cattle. Advances in feed prices in recent months also mean that dairymen should keep closer track of feed costs and take appropriate steps to keep them under control.

When barley is available, it probably should be used at appreciable levels. Including barley at levels up to 40% in a finished dairy feed could reduce costs by $7/ton over heavy use of corn. More good cows the world over are fed barley then corn. Preferably increase barley levels gradually starting at about 20 to 25% of the formula. Levels of 40 to 60% may be used in a meal-type feed.

Ear corn is a more economical feed than shelled corn in many areas. Despite somewhat lower book values for energy in ear corn, many high producing large breed herds will make as much or more milk on ear corn than shelled. The presence of the relatively highly digestible fiber in the cobs helps to reduce starch overloads in heavily fed animals. Use of ear corn may reduce the cost of a finished dairy feed by $4-$6 per ton at farm and retail prices, respectively, for ear vs shelled corn.

The inclusion of raw soybeans at levels up to 20-25% of a finished dairy feed may reduce costs somewhat over the heavy use of soybean oil meal. Their relatively high fat content also may increase milk production and/or milk fat test in some herds. Heat processed soybeans are not as economical since they often cost $16-$20 per ton more. It is not necessary to heat treat soybeans fed to dairy cattle, as opposed to single stomached animals or humans.

Proper heat treatment, however, should be considered if a herd responds well to more rumen bypassable protein and other sources of by-pass protein are not being fed. They also should be treated if they are to be used in a concentrate mixture or a TMR containing urea. At current prices raw beans, are a better buy than whole cottonseed in most situations.

Properly used, in a well balanced ration, urea at a moderate level of 1% in a finished dairy feed may reduce costs by about $8/ton. The formula should not be high in moisture due to inclusion of higher moisture grains or heavy use of molasses. Such moisture could result in the release of ammonia which reduces palatability and the level of nitrogen provided to rumen microbes upon consumption.

Care should be taken not to overfeed urea, if liquid anhydrous ammonia urea or another nonprotein nitrogen source was added at ensiling to corn silage, or a liquid protein supplement is being fed. Many concerns sell protein concentrate and feeds containing urea and feed grade urea is available as an ingredient in numerous localities.

Wet brewers grains also can be used to reduce feed costs while maintaining good performance. Since they often are delivered in 12 or 20 ton loads, they are not as well adapted to use in smaller herds. It is preferable to feed them out within 1 to 2 weeks after delivery during the warmer and colder months, respectively. Some suppliers, however, are now delivering wet brewers in a plastic bag which will allow storage for several months to enable use by smaller herds. Depending upon delivered costs, feeding wet brewers may reduce feed costs by $.21 per cow daily or even more. They often are fed at a level of 20 to 40 lbs. daily to milking animals provide cows with considerable rumen by-passable protein.

Use of wet brewers (a concentrate, not roughage) will reduce the amount of both the low protein and high protein ingredients needed in the ration. They generally contain 24-28% crude protein on a dry matter basis. It takes approximately 4 lb. of wet brewers to equal one lb. of dried brewers in overall feeding value. Thus at $25 per ton delivered, one is obtaining this material at a cost roughly equivalent to dried brewers at $100 per ton. Since brewers like corn and other corn by products are relatively low in the essential amino acid, lysine, some soybeans or soybean oil meal should still be kept in the ration.

Liquid whey from cheese plants also can provide cattle with an economical source of nutrients. Dairy cows usually will drink about 90 lb. of whey daily when it is provided to them on a free choice and continual basis, as it should be to avoid digestive upsets. On a dry matter basis, it is close to corn in protein and energy content.

Such dry by-product ingredients as corn gluten feed and wheat bran may reduce ration costs if grains and ingredients are being purchased at retail prices. In some areas stale pastry products, candy and apple pomace without hulls, shavings or other pressing agents may provide nutrients at relatively low costs. Oats generally are not an economical source of nutrients. Dairymen should realize that they are not essential in a good ration. Many farmers with oats should consider their sale and replacement with lower cost ingredients. Those buying them for use in feeds should consider other less costly ingredients.

Dairy farmers who are short of forage should consider purchase of corn silages at $20-$30 per ton rather than alfalfa hay at $100 or more per ton. Unless urea is being fed as a partial substitute for protein, good alfalfa or mostly alfalfa hay rather than average grass or mostly grass hay at prices as low as $60-$65 per ton.

Buying grain at farm prices rather than retail also may reduce feed costs by $.23 per cow daily. Some dairymen also find it helpful to purchase major ingredients in bulk via brokers or feed concerns.

Mineral ingredients, vitamins, other additives and premixes are available from many feed mills as well as premix concerns. These enable tailoring rations to the economic and nutritional needs of the individual herd situation.

Costs should be controlled for items used in quantity such as feed and fertilizer. Lower cost rations can be as nutritionally sound as higher priced ones, if the ration is properly balanced and fed. Assistance with dairy rations is available at some agricultural extension offices and Dairy Science Extension at Penn State, as well as from numerous feed people and consultants.

ENTER THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION PROGRAM NOW!

(Deadline April 15, 1988)

Beautiful Farmsteads...

A Positive Story

The Northeast is rightfully proud of its dairy industry. Agriculture is our number one industry, with milk its major commodity. Realizing dairying's importance to the area's economy, the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFBP) was incorporated November 1983 to honor attractive dairy farms with the Dairy of Distinction Award.

The award program is based on the concept that these attractive farmsteads will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, stimulate milk sales and encourage public support for the industry.

The NEDFBP has divided the Northeast into regions, with approximately the same number of farms per district. Each district is under the jurisdiction of a local committee responsible for organizing the judging, awarding the Dairy of Distinction signs and publicity. The program also operates on the regional level through the NEDFBP Board of Directors, which ovesee and provide support and guidance to the local communities. All active dairy farms within the region covered by the program are eligible to apply for a Dairy of Distinction award. Applications, available from the program's area secretary, the local committees and other sources such as agricultural publications, must be submitted by April 15 of each year.

Farm judging takes place in the month of May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. Winning farms receive a colorful, aluminum 18x24 inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed on the farmstead near the roadside so passers-by can recognize the farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

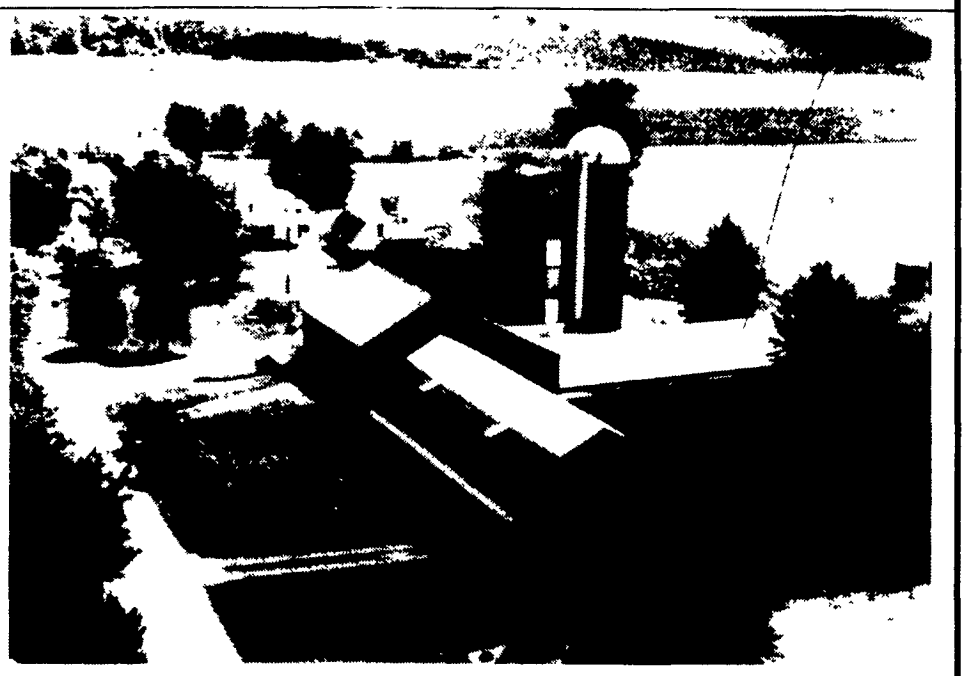
Dairy of Distinction farms will be judged every year to ensure they maintain the excellent standards required for the award.

This exciting program promotes agriculture at its best. Broad public awareness of the program is vital to its success and the impact will increase as more consumers see Dairy of Distinction farms and associate them with dairy products sold in stores.

The Dairy of Distinction program is a cooperative, widespread industry effort. Sponsors include cooperative extension, agricultural cooperatives, State Departments of Agriculture, the Grange, Farm Bureau, producer groups and agribusinesses. Dairy of Distinction is a product of people who care about the Northeast dairy industry.

The NEDFBP extends an invitation to anyone interested in promoting beautiful dairy farms. Dairy of Distinction depends on people — particularly farmers who are proud of their farms and want to help the product they produce.

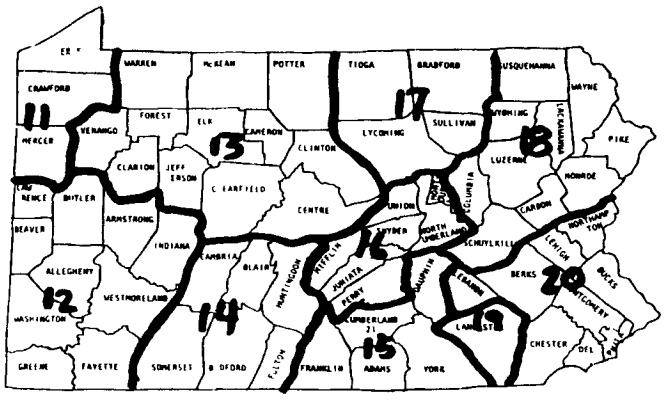
We love the Northeast — its lakes, hills, valleys, mountains, cities...and the beautiful Dairies of Distinction!



The Daniel Jones Farm, Stoneboro, Mercer county, was one of the nearly 100 farms so honored in 1987.

Dairy of Distinction
Dairy Farm Beautification Program

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION DISTRICTS



Pennsylvania Is Divided Into These Districts. Approximately 10 Dairy Of Distinction Awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to you. You receive a nice metal sign to put at the end of your lane and a certificate. In addition Lancaster Farming will present this year's winners from Pennsylvania with a color photograph made from a color slide. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. If your farm is a winner be sure you or your district committee takes a color photograph of your farm and sends it to Lancaster Farming in time for the awards ceremony.

Leader Says Dairy Policy Must Focus On Improved Income

SYRACUES — "Consumers as a group do not protest milk prices, or additional income for dairy farmers. The Northeast must develop dairy policy which takes advantage of this alliance with the views of consumers, and therefore promotes dairying in this state and region," Dairylea President Clyde E. Rutherford told a group of young farm leaders attending the Cooperative's Annual Young Farmers Seminar at the Sheraton Inn, Liverpool, NY on the morning of March 5.

Rutherford, who is also chairman of the National Commission on Dairy Industry Policy created by the 1985 Farm Bill, emphasized the need for a clearly defined agricultural policy in New York state and the region that will improve the business environment for dairy farmers. He said the cornerstone of a state dairy policy must focus on net farm income.

"Deregulation of the state's dairy industry and security funds are not, by themselves, evidence of any particular state policy — and they do not improve the income of dairy farmers, he added referring to the statewide milk dealer licensing law that will replace the 50-year old county licensing system on April 1, 1988.

But Rutherford pointed out that until a clear policy exists which recognizes the current problems faced by dairy farmers and agribusiness, these changes will not advance the interests of New York state dairy farmers. "And this policy needs to be the product of dialogue among all segments of the dairy food cycle and government officials," he added.

On issues broader than dairy, Rutherford noted that there are many legislators sincerely concerned with this state's largest industry. He expressed gratitude for the cooperation and support of these members of the legislature, in particular Assemblyman Michael Bragman (D-Cicero), chairman of the Assembly Agriculture Committee.

Rutherford also discussed the importance of recognizing regional and state differences in regards to milk production costs, availability of nearby markets, milk production volume and herd average, efficiencies at the farm, in processing and distribution, taxes, cooperative strength and attitudes.

"It's clear that the two key topics for our industry in the months ahead are: 1) recognizing regional issues in formulation of dairy industry policies; and 2) finding acceptable methods for controlling excess production," said the Commission Chair. "There is, I think a consensus growing that perhaps we CAN develop a program that will limit the government's involvement to five billion pounds or less of surplus purchases, and at the same time, accommodate regional differences."

Rutherford challenged the young farmers to be better, more efficient managers, and to be more receptive to adopting new technologies and ideas than farmers have in the past. "I have found out that it is not very popular to talk about being inefficient. But the truth is we have to be more efficient or we will not be able to compete."

Rutherford guaranteed that Dairylea will be involved in shaping dairy policy for New York state and the region for the 1990s and beyond. "Complementing this effort, I hope to share the knowledge I have gained from chairing the National Dairy Commission with legislators, the Department of Agriculture and Markets and anyone else in state government who is interested."

The Commission will be making its report later this month.

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based milk marketing cooperative with 3,000 dairy farmer members throughout the Northeast. Dairylea plants at Syracuse, Vernon, Oneida, NY produce fluid milk, cream, Lactaid and cultured dairy products. With 1987 sales of $342 million, it is amoung the nation's to 100 food marketers.

Farm Equipment Manufacturers See A Dollar Sales Upturn

CHICAGO, Il. — U.S. farm field equipment manufacturers and the manufacturers of farmstead equipment forecasted a five percent increase in dollar retail sales and a five percent improvement in parts retail sales according to an industry survey released today.

Starting about mid-point in 1987, farm field-equipment dollar sales started to end their slide downward and began a modest recovery thereby at the end of 1987 they were slightly ahead of 1986. This uptrend is expected to carry forward through 1988.

1988 opens with an agricultural business more favorable to improving sales of farm equipment than the past several years. The well known factors impacting sales such as acres farmed, export demand for grain, net farm income, farmers' attitudes, government farm programs and tax laws remain influential on farmers' decisions to invest in new equipment. Other factors such as land prices, farm debt, availability of loans and the dollar value, while of lessened impact, also have an influence today on farmer purchasing decisions.

With the exception of acres farmed, the above listed factors are perceived as positive in 1988 for agriculture and thus have the potential for a favorable impact on farm equipment sales.

Manufacturers surveyed predicted unit retail sales of 107,510 for farm tractors sold in 1988.

In 1987, FIEI member manufacturers sold 108,189 tractors, 0.6 percent fewer than 1986's total sales, according to the FIEI "Flash" monthly statistical report of unit retail sales released January 14. This was more than the industry had expected to sell based upon their November predictions represented in the State of the Industry report.

Smaller tractors, the "under 40 hp category," accounted for about 55 percent of sales in 1987, according to the "Flash" report. FIEI member companies survyed in the 1988 State of the Industry report expected the "under 40 hp" category to account for 56 percent of sales this year.

These State of the Industry projections represent the medians

The More You Know, The Better You Eat

BY LOU ANN GOOD

PHILADELPHIA — When it comes to eating, the more you know about nutrition, the better you eat. For 68 years Dairy Council Inc. has worked under that philosophy. They're right on target according to Dr. Judy Brun, vice president of Nutrition Education of the National Dairy Council. She reported some good news for the dairy industry on Wednesday at the council's annual meeting in Philadelphia.

Not only are people becoming more aware of the importance of including dairy foods in their diets but they are also consuming more.

During the meeting, farmers, nutritionists and educators viewed the council's latest promotion—elementary school curriculum titled, "Food... Your Choice." Each of the units, designed for students grade 1 through tenth grade, teaches children nutrition in an interesting way by using films, videotapes, computer programs, slides, posters and activities.

Studies show that participants actually do change their eating habits after completing the course. After participating in the school courses that educators hail as impressive and fun to teach, 69 percent adapted their eating habits to conform to their knowledge.

Participants also had more positive attitudes toward nutrition and eating new foods. Kids actually decreased their consumption of soft drinks by 44% and fourteen percent drank more milk compared with students who did not take the program.

The positive news for the farmer translates into 100 pounds more milk per child annually. Multiply that by the number of students who take the course and that means a hefty milk consumption increase.

Another nutritional program geared toward adults is the "Life Steps Weight Management Program." According to Brun, studies at 17 sites showed the average weight loss was 6.9 pounds at the end of the sessions. More importantly, a follow-up study showed participants had continued to lose an average of 10.68 pounds. Their nutritional awareness had increased 80% and 34% made changes in their eating habits.

Brun said the most exciting fact that the study revealed was that the participants who experienced the most weight loss continued consuming dairy products; those who decreased dairy consumption gained weight.

Brun said although they aren't sure why that happened, the relationship is interesting and additional knowledge may reveal the reason in future studies.

The council offers many free workshops to consumers, doctors, nurses, dietitions and other professionals. To increase public awareness in 1987, more than 50 radio and TV presentations were made and more than 300 articles printed. Newsletters, one million pamplets and brochures were distributed.

Brun assured the participants that the national Dairy Council will continue to research the best teaching techniques to increase nutrition awareness and behavioral changes just like they have for the past 68 years.

Dr. Judy Brun

Dairy Council's school curriculum "Food... Your Choice" has proven effective in teaching students about nutrition. Robert McSparren, Dairy Council president, chats with Jan Stanton, executive director, about the program.

Japanese Farm Co-Op Action Is Slap In U.S. Face: USFGC President

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The decision by Japan's huge farmer cooperative, Zennoh, to cut imports of U.S. feed grains in response to an international ruling against the government of Japan is clearly wrong, according to Darwin Stolte, president of the U.S. Feed Grains Council (USFGC).

"Zennoh's decision to cut imports of U.S. feed grains (corn, sorghum and barley) by 20 percent is an unjustified slap in the face of American feed grains producers," Stolte said. Further, he warned, "The action may backfire on the Japanese."

Stolte added that the U.S. feed grains sector has done a great deal over the years to help Japan modernize and improve its livestock production and grain processing industries, so Zennoh's actions are especially misguided. U.S. farmers have also been strong supporters of keeping our borders open to Japanese products. Farmers here may have to re-examine that support. "U.S. farmers don't respond well to threats," Stolte said.

of the range of survey responses of 28 major farm field machinery producers and 25 major manufacturers of farmstead equipment. FIEI member companies were aksed to respond only to questions pertaining to products they manufacture or sell, but to make predictions on an industry-wide, rather than for their company, basis.

The companies that participated in this survey manufacture more than 90 percent of the nation's field machinery and farmstead equipment sold in the U.S. They are all members of the Institute, the major trade association for farm and industrial equiment manufacturers in North America.

FARM WHEEL TRACTORS

In 1987 "100 hp and over" tractors led the way with a 11.6 percent increase to a sales figure of 15,917 for the year, according to the "Flash" report. Sales in that category for 1988 are expected to be at the 14,500 level.

At the same time, sales in the smaller tractor categories coming off a 1987 unit sales of 90,619, forecasted 1988 sales of 91,210 or a slight increase of 0.7 percent.

Sales of four-wheel drive tractors are expected to improve over the 1987 "Flash" report figure of 1,653 units. Sales for four-wheel drive tractors will improve in 1988 by 8.8 percent to 1,800 units, member companies predicted in the State of the Industry report.

GRAIN HARVESTING EQUIPMENT

Sales of self-propelled combines in 1987 were off 6.2 percent from the 1986 figure. Manufacturers predict sales will see a minimal drop of 4.1 percent in 1988. However, they expect a sales rebound in 1989.

The State of the Industry report estimated that corn head sales will rest at approximately 3,800 for 1987, down from the 4,716 units sold in 1986. Manufacturers predicted an increase of 7.8 percent in sales to 4,100 units for 1988.

TILLAGE EQUIPMENT

The negative trend most tillage equipment manufacturers felt in 1986 changed into sales increases in 1987, and manufacturers of field cultivators, disk harrows and chisel plows estimate continued increase for 1988. Disk harrow sales were predicted to increase by 5.0 percent in 1988. Sales of field cultivators and chisel plows were forecasted to increase 5.0 percent and 6.2 percent, respectively, in 1988.

HAY AND FORAGE EQUIPMENT

The market for balers in the over 200-pound bale class is expected to pick up by 3.5 percent in 1988 following an estimated increase of 10.0 percent for 1987, according to the State of the Industry report. In the under 200-pound bale class, a modest increase of 1.9 percent is expected for 1988 with approximately the same unit volume for 1989 is expected in 1988 or 1989. This follows a drop in total retail sales form the 1985 level of 7,038 balers to 5,330 units in 1987, according to the January 14 "Flash" report.

Forage harvesters, which suffered a sales loss of 12 percent in 1986 but rebounded 10.5 percent in 1987 to 2,392 units, should be at the same volume in 1988 according to the State of the Industry report.

Manufacturers of mower-conditioner sold 11,244 units in 1987, up from 1986's of 10,898. Sales of self-propelled and pull-type windrowers increased in 1987 to an estimated 1,600 units and will remain around that level through 1989.

Manure spreader sales are expected to improve by 3.0 percent in 1988, and remain at the same level in 1989.

Grinder mixers are forecast to have a 5.7 decline in 1988 following a strong 21.0 percent increase in 1987 over the previous year.

FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT

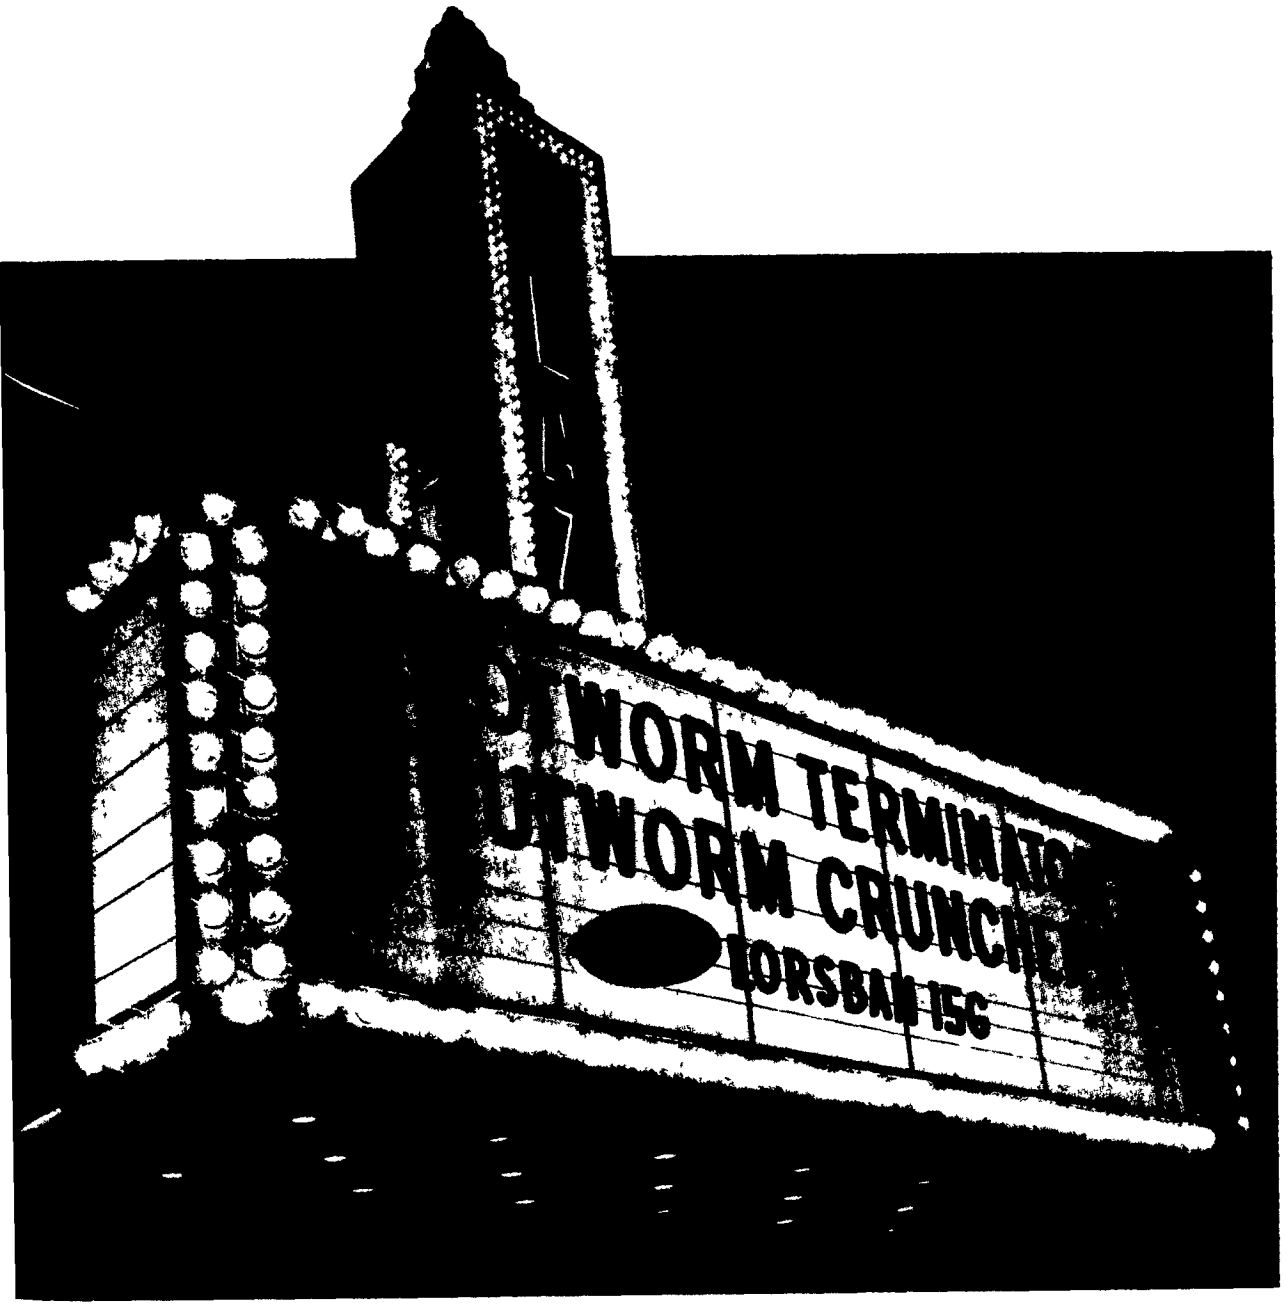
In the following product categories, manufacturers forecasted changes in retail dollar sales.

Sales of augers and elevators are expected to be the same in 1988 as in 1987. Grain bins and crop dryers are expected to show decreases of 22.5 percent and 12.5 percent respectively in 1988. Batch and continuous flow dryers are anticipated to show 2.5 percent sales growth in sales dollars in 1988.

Dairy and beef mechanization equipment sales will show a 5.0 percent improvement in 1988 over 1987, setting the stage for an additional 2.5 percent increase in 1989 as reporters in the State of the Industry predicted. Hog mechanization equipment is expected to show a 4.3 percent increase in 1988. Milking machine sales will decline slightly, from the previous year, in 1988 according to the manufacturers.

FIEI, the national trade association and coordinator for the industry survey, provides to manufacturers services in such areas as electronics, engineering, legislative and government relations, product liability, public relations, safety and statistics.

Copies of the 1988 State of the Industry report and copies of the monthly "Flash" reports are available on request from the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute, 410 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.



Japanese Farm Co-Op Action

Zennoh announced January 12 that it would retaliate against a December ruling by a special General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) panel, which declared Japanese barriers to 10 processed food items were illegal under GATT. Zennoh said it would retaliate by reducing its purchases of U.S. feed grains by 20 percent, increasing its purchases of feed grains from other countries.

In response to Zennoh's announcement, USFGC informed the White House, the U.S. Trade Representative's Office and the U.S. Department of Agriculture of its objections to Zennoh's decision. Also, USFGC announced that it will call an emergency meeting of the Trade Policy Coordinating Committee, which is a committee made up of all major feed grains producer groups, to address this issue.

Stolte characterized Zennoh's decision as an "emotional overreaction" to the GATT ruling. The complaint that brought about the GATT ruling was filed by the U.S. government. However, the U.S. feed grains industry was not a party to the complaint. Feed grains were not part of the 10 food items involved in the complaint. "Nonetheless, Zennoh decided to retaliate against the U.S. by attacking the feed grains sector," he said. "That response is clearly inappropriate," he added.

The feed grains Zennoh does not purchase from the U.S. will have to come from more expensive suppliers, which will only hurt Japanese livestock producers and grain processors who use the feed.

"Zennoh's decision to purchase a significant portion of its members' feed grains needs from higher-priced sources further demonstrates the irrationality and distortions in trade that have been created by Japan's protectionist trade policies. Zennoh's decision shows that the cooperative lacks concern about the ability of Japan's livestock producers and grain processors to become competitive and survive in today's changing trade environment," Stolte said.

Introducing the new

MAGNUM 7120

And the first all-new tractors from Case IH

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505 cubic inch turbo-charged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power. The MAGNUM tractor's powershift puts 18-speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 2.1 mph... for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area...virtually unobstructed visibility... more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: The Case IH MAGNUM 7120 tractor sets new standards for the 150 hp (112 kW) class... and for you. See us for details.

State Ag Committee Renews Funding For 10 Penn State Programs

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Agriculture Research Commitee has approved renewed funding for 10 research projects totaling $239,829.60, state Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff announced today.

Wolff said the work would be funded under the agriculture research provisions in Gov. Robert P. Casey's budget for the 1988-89 fiscal year. The budget is currently awaiting legislative approval.

The projects, covering a broad spectrum of agriculture, are currently underway at Pennsylvania State University, the Univesity of Pennsylvania and Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture.

The five Penn State projects are:

European Corn Borer Management, $7,845.60; Lime and Fertilizer Use in Vegetable Production, $15,000; Forage Disease Control, $29,000; Soil Compaction and Corn Production, $35,339; and Pig Growth Hormone, $30,707.

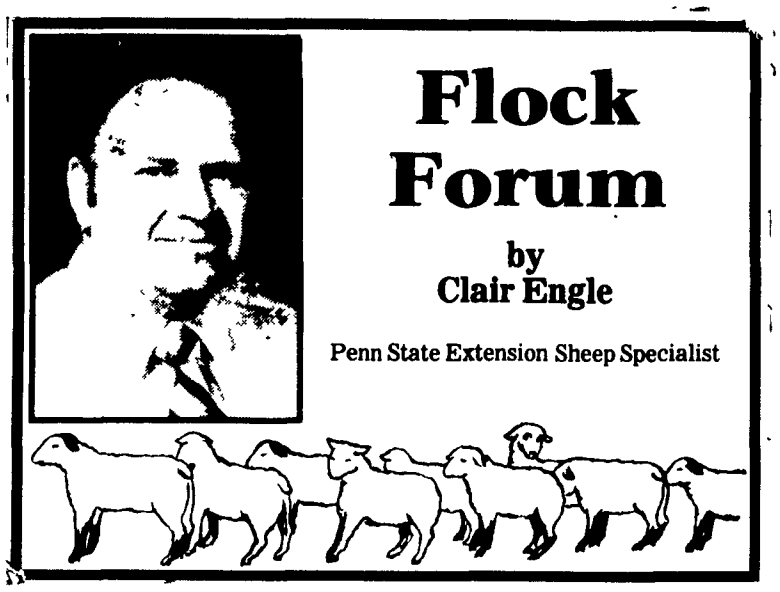
Four of the projects are being conducted by researchers at University of Penn. They are:

Bovine Vaccine Construction, $26,000; Poultry Diseases, $37,850; Reducing Calving Intervals, $18,450; and Bovine Leukemia Virus in Dairy Cows, $24,888.

Renewed funding of $14,750 was approved for research at Delaware Valley College into the effect of pig manure on forage plants and soil.

The 10-member Research Committee is comprised of Sens. Edward Helfrick and Patrick J. Stapleton, chairman and minority chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee; Reps. Samuel W. Morris and Carmel Sirianni, chairman and minority chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee; Secretary Wolff; Deputy Secretaries Fred King and Neal Buss; Walter Peechatka, director of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry; Dr. Max Van Buskirk, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry; and Fred Wertz, chief of the department's Farmland Preservation Division.

Eight representatives of producers, farm organizations and professional groups serve as an advisory body to the committee. They are Henry Gruber, New Tripoli; John D. Hoffman, Harrisburg; Paul McPherson, New Park; Charles Wismer, Harrisburg; Charles Brosius, West Grove; Dale Whitenight, Danville; Charles Ord, Peach Glen; and Dr. Burleigh Anderson, Loysville.



Contagious foot rot next to predation is one of the most economically devastating diseases of sheep. Associated production losses, extra labor and prolonged treatment costs have forced some depressed Pennsylvania sheep producers out of business.

Now is the time of the year to start doing some things to eradicate this highly contagious disease from your flock. In asking many producers about foot rot in their sheep they either do not recognize the disease or will mention they have a few cases but it never seems to be a problem. The next comment, "I have learned to live with it".

Nothing could be further from the truth, because the disease can be eliminated from your flock. The single biggest factor is probably a change in producer attitude about the problem. For others the necessary motivation and commitment to prepare adequate handling facilities and apply some basic management practices may make the difference.

Whatever the case, every serious shepherd must learn to recognize and control this curse.

The following management guidelines for eradicating foot rot have been taken from a recent SID/USDA publication titled "Control Foot-Rot in Sheep". A more detailed discussion on the prevention, treatment, equipment and needed facilities for eradicating foot rot is presented in this publication. You may request a copy by calling your local extension office.

Producers with small flocks may wish to wait until lambs are weaned and for dryer weather conditions to begin an eradication program.

1. Shepherd should be able to recognize the disease from other causes of lameness.

2. Shepherd needs to be supplied with a means of permanently identifying any animal showing evidence of foot rot while on the range.

3. These animals should be removed from the flock at every opportunity and taken to an isolated area for treatment.

4. If there are relatively few infected animals, especially ewes, cull them!

5. If it is not feasible to cull, infected feet should be trimmed and treated. Vaccination may be used, but other treatments are recommended in addition for best results. If trimming can't be done immediately, two soaks (1 hr. each) 5-7 days apart in a zinc sulfate solution would be the treatment of choice. These sheep are not to be returned to the flock until completely cured of foot rot and, even then, they should be permanently identified. Cull those not showing signs of healing.

6. Foot bathing of all animals should be done if a large number of lame individuals are being removed from the flock.

7. When confinement of animals for feeding or lambing is necessary, vaccination should be considered using 2 doses 4-6 weeks apart, or a single booster if vaccinated previously.

8. Zinc sulfate or other chemical foot bath solutions should be used every 5-7 days during confinement.

9. Flock should continually be monitored for lameness. Infected individuals should be removed immediately.

10. It is important not to mix infected animals with clean ewes during lambing or after, in spite of the inconvenience.

11. Cull any permanently marked sheep in which foot rot healed but recurred more than twice within a 2-3 month period.

12. Owners of small farm flocks should plan on starting their eradication program after weaning. Sheep should be tipped up and their feet thoroughly examined every 2-4 weeks: those with any suspicious signs can be removed and feet trimmed. Foot bathing the entire flock whenever a new case is discovered will reduce the spread to normal animals. Treatment of infected animals should proceed as described above. In this manner, carriers will be identified and eradication accomplished much quicker.

Under a proposed $2.379 million project, genetic projections for carcass traits of cattle may be added to sire evaluation programs within three years, using data collected from live animals.

The project, developed for the Seedstock Council of the National Cattlemen's Association by scientists at four universities, was described at the council's recent meeting in Orlando, Fla.

The project has the approval of NCA's Research Committee and Board of Directors. Funding will be sought from USDA's Cooperative State Research Service.

H.H. "Hop" Dickenson, executive vice president of the American Hereford Association, said the project is a breeder effort to respond to new industry emphasis on carcass merit in a uniform, collective way.

Dr. Larry Benyshek, University of Georgia geneticist who made the Orlando presentation, said, "There isn't any doubt we can do this (project carcass EPDs), it's already been done by several breeds." But he emphasized information would have to be collected from live animals because using slaughter data is too slow and costly.

Livestock, Dairy Cattle Health, Handling Are LCI Meeting Topics

MADISON, WI — Animal welfare initiatives, meat residues and livestock identification are three hot issues that will be on the agenda at Livestock Conservation Institutes 1988 annual meeting scheduled for Kansas City, Missouri, on April 12-14, according to LCI president, John H. Lang. "A livestock welfare referendum due to go on the November general election ballot in Massachusetts could decide if livestock producers or animal welfare activists will decide how livestock will be raised in Massachusetts. The implications of the referendum go far beyond the state of Massachusetts," Lang said.

Several high-level livestock industry people are scheduled to participate in this year's annual meeting according to Lang. These include Dr. John A. Cobb, Georgia State Veterinarian and president of the U.S. Animal Health Association. Dr. James W. Glosser, Acting Administrator of the Animal Plant Inspection Service of USDA, and Mr. John Meetz, executive vice president of the National Cattlemen's Association will be discussing a petition filed with USDA on hot iron branding.

The featured speaker at the meeting's annual banquet will be Mr. Manly Molpus, chief executive officer of the American Meat Institute. He will present an animal health and welfare agenda for the livestock industry from the perspective of the meat packing industry.

Other major topics scheduled for the program include swine pseudorabies, selling diseased animals, brucellosis, identification of swine, and preconditioning of beef cattle.

THREE AREAS OF CONCERN FROM THE NEW TAX LAW FOR DAIRY FARMERS

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 provides the most sweeping change in the Internal Revenue Code since 1954. The new law will affect every taxpayer with the net effect dependent upon the status of the individual. Those taxpayers who are wage earners will generally benefit from lower tax rates. But taxpayers who report business income, such as farmers, will find the lower rates are more than offset by a broader tax base. This broader tax base results from the loss of a number of features that previously reduced the tax burden for business taxpayers, including farmers.

Loss of the investment tax credit will impact adversely on commercial farmers in Pennsylvania, at least in the short-run. This feature of prior law provided a 10 percent credit for qualifying investment in assets used in the business. The credit was a deduction from tax and thus was significantly more valuable in reducing the tax burden than deductions for operating expense or depreciation.

The long-run impact of loss of investment tax credit is an unknown at this time. The unanswered questions relating to this issue include to what degree nonfarm capital has been attracted to agriculture because of the tax benefit of investment tax credit? How much was price of inputs and cost of land and other capital items bid up due to competition to farmers from nonfarm investors? Additional research is necessary in this area.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 eliminates the 60 percent capital gain exclusion, effective January 1, 1987, for all capital asset sales except sales of dairy breeding animals by farmers who have a contract with USDA to terminate dairy production. Dairy farmers who have a contract to cease milk production may take the capital gain exclusion on sales of qualifying dairy breeding animals until September 1, 1987.

Loss of the capital gain exclusion is probably the most devastating change in the new tax law, for Pennsylvania farmers and for livestock producers in all states. Producers who market significant numbers of cull breeding animals, particularly cull animals that were raised on the farm, will be most severely affected by this change. Prior law permitted an exclusion of 60 percent of gain at sale of cull breeding animals. In most cases, "gain" is the same as sale price since cash method accounting farm operators typically deduct cost of raising replacement breeding animals and the tax "basis" is zero.

The repeal of the capital gain exclusion means farmers will now pay tax on the entire proceeds from sale of breeding animals rather than only 40 percent as under old law. For most Pennsylvania dairy farmers, this change will significantly increase taxable income and the amount of income tax paid.

The accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS) is changed by the Tax Reform Act of 1986. The new system, usually referred to as MACRS, includes new classes of depreciable property, new methods of computing the depreciation deduction, a somewhat longer recovery period for most farm property, and several new "conventions" that must be observed by the taxpayer, particularly in the year new depreciable property is acquired.

Two years have been added to the recovery period for most farm assets. Farm machinery and single-purpose agricultural structures will have a seven-year recovery period rather than five; light trucks will have a useful life of five years rather than three; and general purpose farm buildings will have a twenty year recovery period rather than nineteen as under ACRS. These changes will not dramatically reduce the depreciation deduction available. However, other features of the new law may act to substantially reduce the deduction.

Recovery deductions for all depreciable personal and real property must now be computed by observing the half-year convention in the year the property is placed in service. This means the property is treated as if placed in service at mid-year and the deduction for the first year will be reduced one-half compared to the deduction under old law. When this feature is combined with the longer life and a new method for computing the deduction, (the 200 percent declining balance method for most classes of property), it means the first-year deduction is reduced to essentially a straight-line amount. Thus, in year one, the recovery deduction will be slightly less than under prior law.

When producers elect to continue deducting preproductive expenses (to be discussed more fully below), they are forced to use the alternative depreciation system and the recovery deduction will be substantially reduced. This system of depreciation requires use of the class life asset depreciation range (ADR) mid-point life in computing depreciation. It also requires use of the straight-line method combined with the half-year convention as previously described. This produces a much slower rate of recovery of capital investment and greatly reduces the annual deduction for depreciation. For example, given a collection of depreciable property consisting of $19,300 in machinery, $9,500 in purchased breeding livestock, and $22,500 in general purpose farm buildings, the alternative depreciation system would yield a total first-year depreciation deduction of $2,101. Regular MACRS would produce a deduction of $5,514. And the deduction under old law (ACRS) would have been $6,018.

The general povisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 requires farmers to capitalize preproductive expense rather than annually deducting these as under prior law. Preproductive expense are costs required to support an enterprise before that enterprise begins producing income. Examples of enterprises that involve preproductive expense are development of replacement dairy animals and development of orchards.

Annual farm operating expense must be reduced by the amount of capitalized preproductive expense. The effect of this is to reduce deductible farm operating expense, to increase net farm profit, and to increase taxable income. The capitalized expense is recovered through annual depreciation deductions when the enterprise begins producing income. Thus, there is a lag of up to two years, in the case of dairy replacements, between the time preproductive expense is capitalized and the time that a tax benefit occurs through added tax deductions.

An election is available to farmers that permits them to continue annually deducting preproductive expenses. But the election involves two penalty features. The amount deducted as preproductive expense must be recaptured as ordinary income at disposal of the enterprise generating the expense. This disposal will occur when an aged dairy animal is sold as a result of normal herd culling. A recent release from the Internal Revenue Service indicates the recapture would be handled as a section 1245 recapture; that is, gain up to the amount of depreciation (in this case gain up to the amount of preproductive expense deducted) is treated as ordinary income and is fully taxes. Since most replacement dairy animals are raised and the annual deduction for cost of raising (or preproductive expense), reduces tax basis of the animals to zero, all income from the sale of cull animals will typically be subject to the recapture.

The second penalty for annually deducting preproductive expense is the required use of the alternative depreciation system for all depreciable assets placed in service in the year that preproductive expenses are deducted. The effect of this is to substantially reduce depreciation deductions since the alternative depreciation system requires a longer life, use of the straight-line method, and the half-year convention. The example cited above in the discussion of the new depreciation rules illustrate the effect of the alternative depreciation system on size of the annual depreciation deduction.

NPPC Delegates Call For Immediate Implementation Of An On-Farm Sulfa Certification

DES MOINES, IA. — Delegates to the Annual Meeting of the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) have voted to leave in place indefinitely a request that pork producers suspend the use of sulfamethazine in all its forms until the Food and Drug Administration reaches a more conclusive decision on its continued use. The NPPC had originally requested a 60-day suspension of use of the drug by producers that would have expired March 28.

Delegates at the Annual Meeting in Nashville, Tennessee on March 5 also accepted a recommendation from the NPPC Quality Assurance Committee that a sulfa-safe certification program be implemented immediately. State Quality Assurance Committees will be established so certification programs can be put in place at the state level as soon as possible. Under the program, producers will be able to certify to packers that their hogs are sulfa-free as they are delivered to the packing plant for slaughter. The testing will have taken place on the farm.

"This certification program will take the unqualified support and cooperation of all segments of our industry if it is to work effectively," said Mike Wehler, Chairman of the NPPC Quality Assurance Committee and the organization's new Vice President. "We are calling on producers, the pharmaceutical and feed industry, extension agents, veterinarians and packers to aid us in this all-out effort to preserve and protect the integrity of U.S. pork at home and overseas," Wehler said. "We all have much to gain and a lot to lose depending on how we handle this economically explosive issue," he added.

The sulfamethazine drug's continued use was brought into question in late January when a toxicology unit of the Food and Drug Administration published an incomplete research report indicating it had been found to be a carcinogen. Later, after news media picked up and carried the story, FDA representatives called the release of the information "unfortunate" and said the research had not been complete. NPPC's Quality Assurance Committee called for producer suspension of the drug's use until the FDA could clarify its position.

Wehler said NPPC's Delegate Body is urging FDA to expedite its technical review process so the cloud of suspicion hanging over the drug's continued use can be raised or lowered once and for all.

Sulfamethazine is used in swine livestock feeds for the primary purpose of treating respiratory ailments.

While NPPC continues to reiterate there is no cause for concern about the safety of pork products already in the marketplace, Japan on February 23 started analyzing all U.S. fresh pork received in its ports for chemical residues. Last week, an 18-ton container of U.S. pork was condemned by Japanese authorities because it contained traces of sulfamethazine. That placed thousands of tons of U.S. pork now bound for Japan in possible jeopardy. The action of Japan, the largest foreign customer for U.S. pork, appeared to subject U.S. pork to more rigorous standards than pork products arriving in Japanese ports from other countries.

NPPC immediately called for the U.S. Trade Representative's Office and Agriculture Secretary Dick Lyng to investigate whether the Japanese action was actually an unfair and artificial trade barrier. A U.S. Department of Agriculture team of food safety experts are now in Tokyo discussing the situation with the Japanese.

"The NPPC is aggressively pursuing the problem," said Ray Hankes, an Illinois pork producer and new President of the organization. "We must do everything we can to protect the integrity of our product in the marketplace here in the United States, in Japan or anywhere else that might be a potential customer. We will work with Japanese authorities as well as our own government to get this matter taken care of as soon as possible. We hope this confusion and uncertainty about the status of sulfamethazine will spur the FDA to clarify its position on the drug and announce it to the public as soon as practical," Hankes said.

Crawford Holstein Calf Sale Set

MEADVILLE — The Crawford County Holstein Club will host the Annual Irish Holiday Calf Sale on Saturday, March 19, 1988, at the Meadville Fairgrounds, Home Show Building, starting at 11:00 a.m. A total of 75 outstanding calves with breeding from Marquis Ned, Astronaut, Elevation, Sexation, Mandingo and Starbuck, to name a few of the sires, will be auctioned off.

The Crawford County 4-H Interstate Exchange Club will be serving food for those in attendance. The money they earn from this project helps finance their 4-H youth exchange program. Last year, the group visited 4-H'ers in California; and this year, Crawford County 4-H'ers will host the California group. Next year, Crawford County 4-H'ers will be going to another state, yet to be determined. The youth raise their own money for this project through variouis activities.

Information concerning the sale may be obtained by contacting Crawford County Holstein Club Sale Chairman, Jeff Raney, R.D.1, Adamsville, PA, or phone (412) 932-3310.

186 PRODUCTION SALE

SAT., MARCH 26, 1988

12:00 P.M.

We welcome everyone to the 1986 Production Sale held this year at Oak Hill Farm, located in District 12.

All the animals are young, nothing over 5 yrs. of age. Yet many have records over 12,000 - 600F. Cows selling with test of 5.8% for the lactation. Lots of them over 4.0% protein.

Should sell 60 head, plus any baby calves born here. All the cattle will be just fresh or springing close.

Sires with daughters in sale:

Legend 3; Nippersink 5; Magic 4; Bossman 3; Top Brass 3; Soldier Boy 2; Black Magic 3; Bruce 3; FW Chief 3; Silver Gem 2; Milestone C; Poet; Saint, State "78"; Earl; General.

Another year and another great group of young cows and springer heifers, ready to go to work. They will be in their working clothes, just as you would want them. Underneath, some outstanding individuals, and as usual, the tops in Jersey pedigrees.

Most milk markets want and are paying for the high solids these cows will produce. Our selection is always for the best test, and above herd average milk. The Jersey cow has never been more profitable than she is today, and the future looks even better.

Locating the sale at the farm has given us the chance to offer you better facilities to inspect the sale cattle. Starting on Wednesday, March 23rd, you are invited to give us a call (614) 439-2025 for early inspection of any cattle you might be interested in. We would appreciate a call to make sure that someone will be here that knows the animals. Farm located 2 miles from Inn, on Co. Rd. 57.

Closed trucks will be available and weather is no problem.
